TWO ARE SHOT AS MAN VISITS HOME OF WIFE

ESTRANGED HUSBAND IS SOUGHT BY POLICE

WOMAN TELLS STORY OF FREQUENT ROWS

Shooting Follows Return of Pair Together From Auto Ride.

Wounded by bullet shots in a mysterious fight in an upper floor apartment at 428½ Thirteenth street northeast about 10 o'clock last night a man and a woman are in serious condition at Casualty Hospital, and police are seeking the woman's estranged husband, who is alleged to have done the shooting.

These in the hospital are Mrs. Irene Hutchison Haag, 23 years old, and Thomas Taylor, 38 years old, both of the Thirteenth street address. Both are suffering from wounds in the head.

Mrs. Haag, the more seriously wounded, was reported to have received a fractured skull from a bullet fired, police believe, at a distance of about 3 feet. The bullet which struck Taylor penetrated the side of his head over the left eye. The bullet which wounded Mrs. Haag had not been extracted at a late hour last night.

Shooting Follows Visit.

The shooting, according to police, followed a visit from Augustus Haag, the husband, who was reported to have been living in Hyattsville with his father. Neighbors said that the man, believed to be Haag, arrived at the place several minutes before Mrs. Haag and Taylor returned from a motor drive with Mrs. Haag's two young children. He conversed with them and followed them upstairs to the apartment, it was learned. About 20 minutes later, five shots were fired. There was a shriek, then a moan.

Neighbors stood on the sidewalk stunned while Mrs. Haag, with blood streaming from her forehead, staggered down the stairway and emerged from the house. In her arms she clutched her 3-month-old child, William, it was said. Her younger child, 6 months old, was carried down by Taylor. The baby was cared for by neighbors and the older child was taken to the hospital.

The man, believed to be Haag, escaped by jumping from a rear window, a distance of about 14 feet to the ground. Police do not believe that he was wounded. Later in the night it was learned from Maryland authorities that Haag had been seen leaving his father's home in Hyattsville with two women.

Took Apartment Last Saturday.

Persons living on the 400 block of Thirteenth street northeast said that Mrs. Haag and the man, later identified as Taylor, had taken the apartment last Saturday. The apartment, an inspection disclosed, was cheaply furnished.

At Casualty Hospital, Mrs. Haag told Dr. J. Rogers Young, who treated her, that she and her husband has had frequent quarrels for the last three years. She said that her husband had shot her about three years ago, and had threatened to do so on a number of occasions since then.

According to police records Haag, on May 25, 1926, shot his wife in the left leg, just above the knee, at Cottage Hill northeast, where she was living with her mother. Mrs. Haag was sitting in a swing on the porch with a former roomer, according to the report.

Mrs. Haag said that last night her husband, on entering the apartment, asked for money and a place to sleep, explaining that he was out of work and "hungry." Mrs. Haag said that she gave him $2 but refused to let him stay in the house. The shooting followed.

The climax came without preliminary of a quarrel, Mrs. Haag said. After the first shot, Taylor intervened and was wounded by one of the four shots that followed, according to Mrs Haag. Mrs. Haag said she was wounded by the first shot.

Mrs. Haag was reported to have been employed at the Sanitary Electric Laundry on H street northeast. Taylor is said to work for the Capital Awning Co., 1508 North Capitol street.

GALLINGER SURVEY ALMOST COMPLETE

Committee Regards Itself as Group of Visitors Anxious to Learn.

ONLY BOCOCK QUIZZED

The official investigation by the Board of Public Welfare into conditions at Gallinger Municipal Hospital, as revealed by The Post, is practically over almost before it has started.

While the medical committee of the board is going through some of the motions, its investigation is not reaching below the surface.

Dr. Edgar A. Bocock, superintendent of the hospital, was asked for and gave a brief outline of his plans when the medical committee made its first visit to the institution Thursday, but no one else has been questioned, nor is it expected that any patients, doctors, nurses, orderlies or other persons, who might have highly relevant information, will be asked to testify.

During its second visit yesterday, the committee, after an extended conference behind locked doors in the hospital conference room, went through the east and west buildings of the psychopathic division, these being respectively the men's and women's treatment quarters, where mental patients are committed after they have served the 48-hour period required in the observation ward. The committee also inspected the new building where the executive offices are located, and on Monday will examine the nurses' and doctors' homes and the morgue.

Thus far the committee's activities during the investigation have been confined to peering under beds and into closets, wiping fingers on walls and otherwise acting like the village youth called up on the platform to assist the magician at a carnival.

"We are not trying charges or going about with the idea of instituting any great and drastic changes," said W. W. Millan, vice chairman of the board and official spokesman for the committee, upon his return from Gallinger last night. "Instead, we consider ourselves in the light of a group of visitors anxious to learn what is going on."

And that sums up the attitude of the committee on medical surveys of the Board of Public Welfare toward the matter of investigating conditions at Gallinger Municipal Hospital revealed by The Post and others during recent weeks.

PUBLICITY HINDERS NAVY PARLEY PLANS

Premature Reports Said to Have Given Wrong Idea on Negotiations.

INITIAL PROGRESS TOLD

By ALBERT W. FOX.

President Hoover's plans for a naval disarmament conference are being embarrassed if not jeopardized by premature publicity which has given an erroneous impression of the present status of the Anglo-American negotiations being conducted by Premier MacDonald and Ambassador Dawes. In order to offset the effect of widely-published reports it became necessary yesterday to explain in general terms the actual status of the negotiations and thus provide an authoritative background for future discussions in the press.

It develops that Premier MacDonald and Ambassador Dawes have made encouraging progress in the discussion of certain basic principles to govern the first preliminary stage of negotiations which must go through many stages before the time will be ripe even to consider the time and the place for the disarmament conference, which Hoover hopes ultimately may be held. So far there is no assurance that Great Britain and the United States will be able to agree on the first important step in the chain of negotiations, despite the fact that the outlook in this respect is hopeful.

Under the circumstances, it is assumed that President Hoover is at a loss to understand reports purporting to show that an Anglo-American accord has already been reached on the whole problem, that the time for the conference has virtually been

Wedding Day Set For John Coolidge

Florence Trumbull Will Become Bride About September 15.

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—In an interview with an Associated Press representative tonight, John Coolidge, son of former President Calvin Coolidge, said his marriage to Miss Florence Trumbull, daughter of Gov. John H. Trumbull of Connecticut, will take place in September.

He would not state the exact date, but it was understood that September 15 was the day chosen.

Miss Trumbull, his fiancee, is at present spending her vacation at Moosehead Lake, Me., with her father.

LAWYER SHOT; ASYLUM CLIENT BEING HUNTED

MOTIVE IN SHOOTING HIDDEN IN MYSTERY

Capital Attorney Found Unconscious From the Wound on Porch.

ROOMER AT HIS HOME IS SAID TO HAVE FLED

Man Sought Freed From St. Elizabeths Through Joyce's Efforts.

Shot in the back of the head with a 32-caliber revolver, Charles N. Joyce, Washington attorney and former World War Army officer, is near death at Emergency Hospital, while police are searching for James A. Wood, former patient at St. Elizabeths Hospital, as Joyce's probable assailant.

Joyce was found by neighbors early yesterday morning in a semiconscious condition on the rear porch of his home, 313 Whalon avenue, Aurora Heights, Va. While there apparently were no eyewitnesses to the shooting, neighbors are reported to have seen Wood run out of the back yard soon after shots were heard. Two shots are said to have been fired. One bullet penetrated Joyce's head and may prove fatal, although, after an X-ray of the wound had been made at Emergency Hospital, it was reported he had a chance to recover.

Prior to being found shot, Joyce was last seen by Mrs. I. L. Bollinger, a neighbor, who said she saw him watering flowers in his yard. Mrs. Joyce, who was inside the house, said she did not hear the shots. She also declared she did not know that Wood, who was living in the home, had arisen, and she thought he was still in his room.

Physician Summoned.

Dr. Ralph Quick, of Clarendon, Va., was summoned to the home immediately after the tragedy was discovered. He ordered the removal of Joyce to the hospital, and Bollinger placed the wounded man in his car and started for Washington.

In the meantime some one had called Emergency Hospital and an Emergency Hospital ambulance met Bollinger on the Key Bridge, where Joyce was transferred from the car to the ambulance.

While Joyce was being taken to the hospital, Arlington County police were notified and they launched a search for Wood. Police of Washington, Baltimore and Richmond were communicated with and asked to be on the lookout for him, although no specific charge has yet been placed against him.

Neighbors who heard the shots connected Wood with the shooting. Upon hearing the shots they are said to have rushed to the Joyce home, where they found Joyce lying on the rear porch, bleeding profusely from two wounds. They also told police they saw Wood run through the garden just after the shots were fired, climb over a high wire fence and slide down a steep bank to the Lee highway.

Unable to Speak.

Joyce was so weak from loss of blood that he was unable to speak audibly when asked about the shooting after arrival at the hospital.

Wood is reported to have lived at the Joyce home since early this spring and had been working assiduously recently on a photographic invention in a basement laboratory at the home.

SHIP GOES UNHARMED AS RAIN BEATS SIDES

LARGE FOG BELT LIES IN PROJECTED ROUTE

Conditions Probably Safe, However, Says Pacific Coast Bureau.

Tokyo (Saturday), Aug. 24 (A.P.).—The Ochiishi wireless station heard the Graf Zeppelin broadcast this morning a position report as of 10 a. m. (8 p. m. yesterday, Eastern standard time), of longitude 161 degrees 25 minutes east, latitude 39 degrees 20 minutes north. The message from the dirigible said she was heading northeast in the direction of the Aleutian Islands. The passengers and crew were well. The passengers had enjoyed a Japanese breakfast.

The position indicated by the message is approximately 1,190 miles from Kasumiguara Airport, whence the Graf Zeppelin departed for Los Angeles yesterday afternoon at 3:12 o'clock, and is about 730 miles to the south of Kamchatka Peninsula.

This report showed the dirigible had covered 1,190 miles in 17 hours and 47 minutes since starting for Los Angeles and had maintained an average speed of about 67 miles an hour.

Skies Become Clear.

With clear moonlit skies above and the waters of the Pacific five miles deep below her, the Graf sailed through the night, cutting [illegible] ating her from Los Angeles, next to last stop on her circumnavigation of the world.

Dr. Hugo Eckener seized an unexpected moment of good weather, ordered passengers aboard, and the big Graf was drawn from the hangar yesterday afternoon. Heading into the northeast on her planned course, the Zeppelin disappeared within seven minutes in the direction of the open Pacific.

Almost immediately great danger faced the dirigible with its crew of 41 and passenger list of 19. Storm areas were reported off the coast of Northern Japan, over the Aleutian Islands and the Bering Sea, creating new hazards along the great circle route. Apparently without a moment's hesitation, the Graf's commander ordered her nose pointed straight into the vast spaces of the Pacific, along a route 500 miles to the south of the intended course.

But the Graf was unable to steer clear entirely of the storm area. Wind and rain beat against her and lightning flashed on her silver sides as she rode through the squall into clear weather. Despite the great danger there was no anxiety aboard the airship. The passengers gathered for dinner in the dining salon as if nothing had happened, according to wireless dispatches from the Graf to Japanese government radio stations.

Fails to Dodge Storm.

The Graf carries 19 passengers and a crew of 41 over the Pacific. The addition to the crew is Chief Engineer Karl Beuerle, who came to Japan to supervise arrangements for the Zeppelin's stop at Kasumigaura. Three new passengers are aboard, Lieut. Comdr. Ryunosuke Kusaka, of the Japanese naval general staff; Dofu Shirai, Japanese news agency representative, and Maj. Shinichi Shibata, of the general staff of the army. They replaced four others who left the ship here after the trip from Friedrichshafen.

HOOVER TO REFUSE AID IN TARIFF ROW

Expects Congress to Fight Alone While He Turns to Other Issues.

PUBLIC IS UNINTERESTED

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

President Hoover, it is being talked about in circles that should know, plans to let Congress get out of the tariff mess as best it can while he proceeds with his own administrative projects on which he believes he can well stand.

In so far as the great farm issue is concerned, Mr. Hoover is represented as believing that the Farm Board will fully take care of it; that the farmers will, at least, be so pleased with its work that they will not be looking for iniquities in the tariff bill. And he expects his naval disarmament program to stand him in good stead.

In brief, it is being nosed about, and there is much evidence to bear it out, that after a long period of keeping quiet, the President has

BRITISH AGAIN SPURN REPARATIONS OFFER

HOPES OF AMITY FADE

The Hague, Aug. 23 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Philip Snowden, British chancellor of the exchequer, this afternoon rejected the latest compromise offer made by France, Italy, Belgium and Japan in an effort to satisfy the British demand for $11,433,000 more annually from the reparations "spongecake" than London is accorded under the Young plan.

The offer was made to him verbally by Henri Jaspar, premier of Belgium, who has been acting as intermediary in the negotiations between the British delegation and the four powers that are holding out for integral adoption of the Young plan.

Snowden turned the offer down, he said, because it was practically the same as the offer he has already repeatedly refused and this time was not even put in writing.

Police to Get Data Quickly By New Teletype System

District Heads Approve Installation of Electric Typewriters at Headquarters and Precinct Stations; Intercity Hook-up Planned.

Delay in broadcasting lookouts, orders and other information from police headquarters to the fourteen precincts and the harbor patrol is about to be overcome by installation of a complete teletype system of electrical typewriters, approval for the improvement having been granted yesterday by the District Commissioners.

The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. has been authorized to proceed with the installation of nineteen sending and receiving sets and one set for reception only, the District to furnish the power and install all power wires and also to start and stop the switchboard control motor which will operate the instruments.

These instruments are similar to those now used for Nation-wide dissemination of news by the great news services. Messages sent from any one of the transmitting instruments are reproduced instantly in type by each of the receiving instruments connected in the network.

Under the present system of installation the Police Department of Washington will not be able to communicate by teletype with the police department of any other city, but the Public Utilities Commission is awaiting specifications from the telephone company advising the cost of installation of an additional sending and receiving machine at police headquarters here which would permit communication with police in any other city using similar apparatus.

The new local service is to be operated on a 24-hour basis, with the

Peruvian Embassy Shows Rapid Diplomatic Turnover

Third Envoy in Less Than Two Weeks Soon to Take Charge After Prada's Servant Difficulties With Mrs. Poindexter.

(Associated Press.)

Since servant difficulties between Mrs. Miles Poindexter, wife of the former Ambassador to Peru, and Alfredo Gonzalez-Prada, resulted in the latter's resignation as charge d'affaires of the Peruvian Embassy less than two weeks ago, the mission has been successively in the hands of two other diplomats—and soon it is to be placed in charge of another.

J. Alvarez de Buenavista, formerly first secretary, yesterday transmitted to the State Department a note designating him as charge d'affaires. Signed by Isaias de Pierola, who was designated charge by Prada in a note announcing his own resignation, the communication delivered yesterday was dated August 17. Prada said later that he has been chief of the mission since then.

The State Department barely will have time to acknowledge the communication, however, before the embassy will have a new charge d'affaires.

For Buenavista explained he will designate Santiago F. Bedoya as charge as soon as the latter returns about September 2 from a leave in Lima. At that time, Buenavista will leave the embassy in order to continue medical treatment for an illness from which he has been suffering for some time.

Bedoya will serve as chief of the mission for a number of months, as the Ambassador, Dr. Hernan Velarde, is not expected to return until the first part of next year. The Ambassador will become dean of the Diplomatic Corps after Sir Esme Howard, the British Ambassador, retires on February 2.

Angeles Tuesday afternoon, or even Monday, if she can regain lost speed. She could probably cruise until sundown, as she did over Tokyo and Yokohama. Two or three days' rest for the crew, overhauling of motors, if necessary, and the Graf will leave Los Angeles for Lakehurst, where she started her world journey August 7.

San Francisco, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—The Weather Bureau here announced today that a large fog belt lay in the course of the dirigible Graf Zeppelin, which started yesterday from Kasumigaura, Japan, for Los Angeles, Calif., and that unless conditions changed the airship probably would encounter moderate to fresh winds on the great circle route to America.

The expected weather, said Assistant Forecaster Thomas R. Reed, "does not necessarily mean great hardship for the Graf Zeppelin."

"Dr. Eckener," said Reed, "is one of the world's acknowledged authorities on meteorology and the comprehensive reports which we shall send him twice daily will enable him to lay his course to take advantage of the winds rather than to fight them.

"I do not regard the present situation as a dangerous one. It is rather the normal, for there is a great deal of fog in the Aleutian Islands region. It is the foggiest area of the North Pacific Ocean, with fog about 40 per cent of the time."

Winds to Be On Beam.

The winds which his reports indicate the dirigible will encounter, Reed said, will be from the north and south, at different parts of the course, and will be on the beam of the airship. Westward of the 170 degree of west longitude the winds will blow from the Bering Sea, while eastward of that meridian the winds will be from the south.

In voyaging from Japan to the American mainland by the Great Circle route the Graf Zeppelin, if it does not change its course, will pass about 230 miles southward of the southernmost of the Aleutian chain of islands, which extend 1,000 miles from Alaska toward Japan. Dutch Harbor, a village on one of these islands, and St. Paul Island, in the Bering Sea, possess United States naval radio stations which can convey not only local weather reports to the Graf Zeppelin, but the general weather forecast as well.

The Weather Bureau's report is compiled from reports of stations in Alaska and along the coast of the Pacific States.

Philadelphia, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—The radio operator on top of the Reading Railway Station here picked up a Q. S. T. message from the Graf Zeppelin at 7:03 p. m., Eastern daylight saving time. A Q. S. T. message means "everybody attention."

The message said that the big air liner, now out over the Pacific on her way from Tokyo to Los Angeles, "would appreciate the weather reports in the vicinity of 160 degrees east."

The Graf gave her position at that time as 154 east, 39:40 north and reported "all well."

Two Planes Collide On Field; Flier Dies

Five Others Have Narrow Escapes; Ship Bursts Into Flames.

New Orleans, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—One pilot was burned to death, and another pilot and four passengers narrowly escaped death late today when two airplanes collided at Menefee Airport. Both were destroyed by fire.

Both planes were on the ground. Elliott D. Coleman, Jr., 19, of Waterproof, La., was killed, and Dan E. Thomas, 26, mail plane pilot, sustained lacerations about the head. The latter and four passengers jumped to safety as their plane burst into flames.

The mail plane was taxiing down the runway preparatory to take-off. Coleman is said to have taxied his plane across the runway and directly in the path of the mail plane. The crash was followed immediately by fire.

ALEXANDRIA SENDS FIREMEN TO FETE

Three Companies to Take Part in Big Parade Next Week at Lexington.

GIRL FINED IN DRY CASE

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The three fire companies of this city will send 75 men to the State firemen's convention, which meets in its forty-third annual session at Lexington next week. The delegation will be headed by Fire Chief James M. Duncan, jr., and will be accompanied by the Citizens Band of 32 pieces. The firemen, led by the band, will participate in the big parade Thursday, in which all the visiting companies will take part.

There will be ten bands in line, and the prizes to be awarded will be for the appearance of the companies, with and without band and number of men in line. The Alexandria firemen also will participate in the reel races.

Among the features of the convention will be two dances and trips to Natural Bridge and other points in Lexington and Rockbridge County.

The Potomac Fire Department will also attend the convention and will ship ahead its new American-La France pumper, which will be in the parade.

Estelle Moon, colored, 18 years old, of 515 South Alfred street, was fined $100 and costs by Acting Justice John Brookfield on a charge of violating the prohibition ordinance. The arrest was made by Detective Sergt. Sims and Sergt. Padgett, who seized a half gallon jar of whisky, and also mopped up a portion of the contents of another jar which the girl is alleged to have been carrying in a basket, and which was smashed. She entered a plea of guilty through her counsel, Attorney Robinson Moncure, and in addition to the fine was ordered turned over to the juvenile court and paroled on probation.

After the passing of sentence, the girl was called as a witness in the cases of three colored persons, two of whom are named Dudley and the third Wallace, charged with violating the city dry law. Sergt. Sims testified that Estelle Moon had told him she had taken a package of liquor into the Dudley home, but that the police were unable to find any trace of liquor there. The girl, on the stand, denied having taken liquor to the Dudley home and claimed she made the statement while frightened. Commonwealth's Attorney Bryan then moved that she be given a jail sentence by the juvenile court, but since Justice Brookfield had no authority in the premises, the case was held over until the return of Justice Snow, juvenile court officer.

Four women were brought to the Alexandria Hospital yesterday suffering from cuts and bruises received when an automobile driven by one of them went off the road a mile north of Engleside, on the Fort Humphreys road, and crashed into a telegraph pole.

The women gave their names as Mrs. Everett A. Trent, 2605 Edgegreen avenue, Baltimore, the driver; Miss Janice Trent, Miss Geraldine Trent and Mrs. J. M. Wilkerson, all of the same address. They were brought to the hospital by A. M. Walker, who lives nearby, and treated by Dr. S. B. Moore. They were all able to leave the hospital last night.

Daniel Green, 43, colored, of 405 First street, this city, who was working on a lawn in Rosemont yesterday, walked into the basement at the apartment house at 20 Chapman street, and in less than an hour was found dead by H. A. Slaughter. Dr. T. Marshall Jones, coroner, stated Green had evidently fallen dead immediately after entering the basement and gave a certificate of death from natural causes.

The body of Edward J. Williams, 67, husband of Mrs. Amy Williams and father of Owen E. Williams, of Aurora Hills, who died on August 14, will arrive in this city today. Funeral services will be conducted this afternoon at Ivy Hill Cemetery by the Rev. G. J. Hooker, of the Methodist Protestant Church.

Mrs. Rathbone Smith, Miss Elizabeth Smith, Mrs. Charles Poser and Mr. and Mrs. Neville Hall will attend the marriage today of their cousin, Miss Mary Cary Pyke, to William J. Walmsley, of Bartle Hall, Preston, England, at the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Pyke, Richlands, Widewater, Va.

E. R. Lewis Is Dead.

Charlottesville, Va., Aug 23 (Special).—E. R. Lewis, of Montpelier, Va., died last night at University Hospital after a week's illness. The body has been taken to Orange, where interment will take place in Graham Cemetery. Mr. Lewis was a native of Culpeper County. He is survived by two children, Mrs. Harry Sanford, of Orange, and E. B. Lewis, 600 Lexington avenue, this city.

FILLING STATION BANNED IN COUNTY

PROPERTY RULE IS OUT

Reversing its decision of last week, the Arlington County Zoning Commission, meeting last night in the courthouse, refused to grant a permit to Mrs. Marie Clark Bell for the erection of a gasoline filling station on Lee highway at the intersection of Virginia and Rucker avenues in Lyon Village.

In announcing the decision, Chairman Fred A. Gosnell declared that there was no guarantee that the area would not be zoned commercial. The rehearing of the case resulted from a protest filed with the board of supervisors at their meeting Monday by Robert N. Anderson, representing the Lyon Village Citizens Association, who declared that the residents had not been given an opportunity to be heard.

Property Rule Repealed.

At last night's meeting, however, the commission voted to abolish the rule which has been in force requiring applicants for permits to accompany their applications with names of 75 per cent of the property owners affected showing approval. This motion was presented by Robert H. Forman.

Addressing the commission, Anderson declared that the filling station at the site proposed would be dangerous and a menace to the traveling public. Monroe H. Stockett, in presenting a petition signed by 59 property owners of Lyon Village protesting against the filling station, said he was "amazed that the public was disregarded" in the filing of applications through the commission's decision not to require consent of property owners.

Gosnell Replies.

Gosnell, replying for the commission, said that if the rule remained in effect the people and not the commission would be zoning Arlington County.

Mrs. Bell's counsel, Thomas H. Phillips, told the commission that no new evidence had been presented except further argument on safety and fire hazards. At this point C. C. Donaldson, of the Cherrydale Fire Department, said that in 23 years with the department he had never attended a fire at a filling station.

Others who spoke against the filling station were Mrs. J. W. Walcott, Louis C. Carl, Amos C. Crounse and Henry Young.

Accompanying the President were Secretary Adams and Maj. Gen. Neville, commandant of the Marine Corps and member of the Navy General Board, with whom he was expected to confer on the pending naval limitation negotiations with Great Britain.

Others in the party were James R. Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 23.—"The churches have tried everything in the world except the divine program," the Rev. Gypsy Smith, jr., noted Southern evangelist, today told the Massanetta Springs Bible Conference. The meeting closes Saturday.

"We have our churches organized," said Rev. Smith. "We have our union evangelistic campaigns. We are organized to death. We have tried everything in the world but the thing Jesus intended us to have—the divine program." Dr. John Timothy Stone, of Chicago, asked the minister if "we are preaching a sermon that has a subject, or a sermon that has an object?"

SCHNEIDER CUP BODY DENIES ITALY'S PLEA

ONLY BRITISH MAY FLY

London, Aug. 23 (A.P.). — The Schneider Cup Trophy committee tonight decided that the request of Italy for postponement of the airplane speed races could not be granted under the rules governing the contest.

In the resulting confusion it appeared that British planes alone may race themselves around the course off Cowles, Isle of Wight, on September 6 and 7. British preparations for the races have gone forward without a hitch. In contrast the Italians have met with four serious accidents, the most tragic of which was the death of Capt. Giuseppe Motta, vice commander of the school of high velocity at Desenzano, and the loss of his racing plane.

The other Italian speed planes had earlier been wrecked, and a third had suffered less serious damage. The only entry other than English is Lieut. Alford J. Williams, U. S. N. Bad weather has seriously delayed his test flights of a new plane so that it appeared possible he would be unable to reach England in time to compete.

Hits Water at Terrific Speed.

Capt. Motta took off from Lake Garda yesterday in the plane M-67 for a test flight, but had risen only about 300 feet when the plane plunged into the water. Its speed was nearly 200 miles an hour when it struck, and it disappeared almost immediately with the pilot.

The trophy committee held a conference lasting several hours at the Royal Aero Club, and at the end issued the following communique:

"We have received a formal communication from the Italian government through the Italian air attache requesting postponement for one month. The air attache has been informed that the rules of the International Aeronautical Federation do not permit the club to postpone the contest once entries have been received."

Williams Delayed Again.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Bad weather during the afternoon today forced a further postponement of Lieut. Al Williams' test of the Mercury racer plane on the Severn River here. A haze blowing into the river from Chesapeake Bay accompanied by a shower in midafternoon made the test impossible, friends of the flier said. Lieut. Williams decided to defer his trial of the Mercury until tomorrow morning when haze blowing in from Chesapeake Bay made visibility poor.

Plans were made for an early start tomorrow if the weather should clear by morning.

Williams was unable to take advantage of favorable conditions in the morning, because mechanics were busy attaching an air vent to safe the flier from being overcome by motor fumes as he was on his last tryout Wednesday. A sheet metal air channel about an inch and a half high was run along the 6 feet from the nose to the cockpit to assure the pilot a supply of fresh air at high speed.

Refusal of Italy's request for postponement of the Schneider Cup race because of the death of Capt. Motta, of the Italian racing team, means that Williams must make a flight here satisfactory to the Navy Department and then ship his plane to New York in time to embark for Europe Tuesday.

Unfavorable Weather Halts Coste Take-Off

Paris, Aug. 23 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Unfavorable weather conditions make it unlikely that Coste will hop off tomorrow. It appears certain now that New York is his objective, but he will not risk the venture until meteorological reports give him relative certainty that the flight can be attempted with maximum chances of success.

In the event of the persistence of unpropitious conditions over the Atlantic until the season is too far advanced for the flight to be possible, Coste will try to beat the distance record in a straight line.

BOXERS ARE FINED AFTER COUNTY RAID

Referee Is Also Assessed by Prince Georges Police Judge.

CAPITAL MAN SENTENCED

Latrobe Cogswell, chairman of the Maryland State Boxing Commission, yesterday attended the trial of five persons arrested in a raid on a boxing match Monday night near Seat Pleasant, Md., by Prince Georges County police. Cogswell explained the boxing law and the commission's customary procedure to Judge J. Chew Sheriff, who presided at the trial in the Upper Marlboro branch of County Police Court.

Harry Sheehy, 3311 N street northwest, also known as Kid Sullivan, a former prize fighter, who acted as referee at the match, was fined $25 for refereeing a boxing match without a license from the boxing commission. He was represented by former Assistant District Attorney Albert Stern, of Washington. Four other charges were nolle prossed. Sheehy pleaded guilty to the charge on which he was fined.

James Glascoe, colored, 19 years old, 1801 Eighth street northwest, and Grady Gamble, also colored, 25, 1708 Tenth street northwest, who were in the ring when the police entered were each fined $5 on a charge of entering a ring in a boxing match without having been declared physically fit by a competent physician. Other charges against them were nolle prossed.

Charges against John Burch, colored, another fighter, and Mary Johnson, colored, who acted as cashier, were nolle prossed. Sheehy and the Johnson woman had been at liberty on $5,000 bond each, and the other three where held in jail in default of like bond.

Walter S. Selby, of Twining City, D. C., yesterday was sentenced to serve 18 months in the Maryland House of Correction on two charges of assault and battery by Judge Sheriff. Selby was charged with assault on George M. Cox and Mrs. Clara V. Huntt, both of Oxon Hill, Md., at Mrs. Huntt's home. Selby and several friends, it was alleged, went to the Huntt home to attack Mrs. Huntt's husband and the assaults followed. Selby also was fined $25 for disorderly conduct.

Nathaniel Brooks, colored, who was alleged to have shot Charles Coleman, also colored, in the course of an altercation near Piscataway, at a colored amusement park, was sentenced to serve 18 months on a charge of assault and battery and to pay a fine of $25 for carrying concealed weapons. Through his attorney, Alan Bowie, he appealed the jail sentence and posted $1,000 bond for his appearance in Circuit Court.

Albert Butler, colored, Oxon Hill, was sentenced to serve 24 months in jail for assault and battery alleged to have been committed on Joseph Simms and Dorothy Simms, also colored, August 16, in a colored dance hall near Oxon Hill. Henry Butler, colored, charged with assault and battery on Thomas E. Swann, colored, was sentenced to serve 12 months and Francis Butler, colored, also charged with assault and battery on Swann, and the only one of the three to plead guilty, was sentenced to serve six months.

A mass meeting of tobacco raisers of southern Maryland will be held Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the courthouse in Upper Marlboro to protest against arrests of tobacco haulers made by Maryland State Police. Most of the arrests have been made in Anne Arundel County, but tobacco raisers of all southern Maryland have been urged to attend.

The haulers were arrested by State police acting under orders of the commissioner of motor vehicles, who claims that the haulers should have public service commission tags. According to J. F. Lillard, attorney for the haulers, this is impossible as the commission has given the charter to a Tidewater concern.

Among those arrested was Herbert Smith, driver for George Jackson, of Upper Marlboro, who was fined $5 in an Anne Arundel Court and appealed the case. The drivers are those who are carrying pooled loads of tobacco.

AUTOIST IS SOUGHT IN WOMAN'S DEATH

Suspect in Hit-and-Run Crash Fails to Appear at Lynchburg.

TRAIL BELIEVED KNOWN

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Aug. 23.—Despite promises, Emmett Casey, wanted on charges of fatally injuring Mrs. E. W. Crowder here Monday night with an automobile and failing to stop to give assistance, had not been delivered to the police early tonight. While the authorities do not say they know of the whereabouts of Casey, it is understood that they know he is in a small western North Carolina town, but no steps had been taken to apprehend him today because of his father's promise that he would surrender.

Former Detective H. W. Gilliam, who was dismissed from the department when he admitted he knew of the identity of the driver of the car which killed Mrs. Crowder, has been bailed for preliminary trial on August 30, when he will answer the charge of aiding and abetting in the escape of Casey.

Casey's father is the owner of the Isis, Belvedere and Gayety Theaters and lessee of the Academy of Music here. He is living in Greensboro, N. C. His wife is a daughter of the late Judge F. W. Whitaker, for years judge of the municipal court here.

Pressly Pugh, former Campbell County policeman, now of the Baldwin Detective Agency, was the man who turned former Detective Gilliam up in his alleged efforts to "cover up" the actual hitting and killing of Mrs. Crowder. Pugh was called in on the case by the local police department and spent some time with Gilliam trying to unravel the mystery. He soon realized, he said, that everything that was being done by the police was being "messed up" by some one. Soon his suspicions directed themselves to Gilliam and later at the police headquarters Pugh is said to have told Gilliam that he (Pugh) knew all about the case and that if Gilliam did not make a clean breast of the affair he would go to Chief Smith and make a disclosure. Although Pugh had no more than a faint suspicion that Gilliam knew about the killing, Gilliam at once went to Chief Smith's office and made a complete confession. At the conclusion of this Gilliam turned in his revolver and badge.

Later Gilliam was charged in a warrant sworn out by Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney Jordan with aiding and abetting Casey in an effort to "cover up" in the killing of Mrs. Crowder.

REPUBLICANS MEET IN VIRGINIA TODAY

State Board Will Select the Lieutenant Governor as Candidate.

PARSONS LIKELY CHOICE

Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 23.—T. X. Parsons, of Roanoke, former assistant United States attorney for western Virginia, is regarded as most likely choice of the Republican State committee to take the place of R. Walter Dickerson, of Russell County, who declined the nomination for lieutenant governor.

This is the information obtained in high Republican circles here on the eve of the State committee meeting at Lynchburg tomorrow night and following conferences of other leaders with C. Bascom Slemp in Washington this week. Henry W. Anderson has announced that the committee will select a candidate for lieutenant governor, but he did not disclose the choice of the committee.

An effort is to be made to have Mr. Dickerson reconsider his declination, but it appears unlikely that he will do so, and Parsons, son of former Senator John S. Parsons, of Grayson, is said to be willing to accept the nomination on the fusion ticket with Dr. William Moseley Brown, of Lexington, candidate for governor, and Capt. C. C. Berkeley, of Newport News, running for attorney general. Brown and Berkeley are the anti-Smith Democratic nominees who are indorsed by the Republicans.

Worried by Incident.

Republican leaders are said to have been somewhat concerned over the effect of the Dickerson "incident," which has given rise to reports of friction between the Republicans and the anti-Smiths because of the latter's failure to indorse Dickerson for lieutenant governor. Dickerson's speech accepting the nomination at the Richmond Republican convention was not well received by Republicans, it is said, because of his references to the Union affiliations of his family during the Civil War. Arch Williams, anti-Smith leader of the Ninth District, announced most of the State committee of the group favored James H. Price, Democratic nominee; and Dickerson's friends advised him to withdraw.

Because of the complications which are said to have developed as a result of the Dickerson resignation it is understood the anti-Smith State committee will indorse whomever the Republican State committee names at Lynchburg tomorrow night.

Opposed by House.

The official explanation from Republican leaders standing by Dr. Brown is that Dickerson's financial and business situation does not permit him to devote the time to the campaign that is demanded. Dickerson was strongly backed by both Democrats and Republicans for a place on the Federal Farm Board, but he was passed over by President Hoover.

If Dickerson will reconsider his resignation as the Republican nominee for lieutenant governor, the Republican State committee will renominate him, and the anti-Smith State committee will now accept him, but there is said to be no possibility of him changing his mind.

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Aug. 23.—Six bedrooms and an assembly room have been reserved at the Virginia Hotel for use of the State central Republican committee, which is scheduled to meet here Saturday evening.

A. W. Mosby, chairman of the city Republican committee, said there is no local member of the State committee, and he has not been advised as to what will happen at the meeting.

J. Calvin Moss, head of the local anti-Smith forces, would make no statement.

So far as Mosby knows, anti-Smith leaders have not been invited to participate in the conference.

Bolivia Expected To Reenter League

Olive Branch Extended by Request for Aid in Health Survey.

Geneva, Aug. 23 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Bolivia's resumption of active participation in the League of Nations was presaged today by a request to Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the league, from President Stiles of Bolivia asking that body to take over the reorganization of Bolivia's public health service.

Drummond placed the question on the September council's agenda, when Bolivia, under Article IV of the covenant, is expected to designate an official representative to participate in the council's discussion of the matter.

Although the league so far has received no notice that Bolivia's participating in the assembly, from which Lapez withdrew in 1922, the general impression here is that the president's letter makes her reentrance inevitable.

Peru is also participating in this year's assembly for the first time since 1920, following the Tacna-Arica dispute.

Los Angeles Airman Held Up by Weather

New York, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Capt. Roscoe Turner, who flew from Los Angeles with passengers day before yesterday and who had hoped to fly them back today, has indefinitely postponed the flight.

Continued bad weather late today made it possible that the flight would be abandoned altogether. It was Turner's plan to fly his passengers back to Los Angeles and then hop alone to Cleveland for the air races. He indicated today that if weather held him up another day he might go direct to the races from here.

Police Chief Knocks Out Half of His Entire Force

Fists in Feud Fly Freely, Then Warrants, Pro and Con, Are Issued—Meanwhile New Jersey Hamlet Is Guarded By Lone Patrolman.

Matawan, N. J., Aug. 23 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—This little hamlet has only one patrolman to protect it these days. Granted, the police chief is on the job, but his time is much taken up with filing charges, answering charges, arranging bail and a few similar details that arise when two-thirds of the town's police force begin trying to settle a private fist fight.

The fight dates back a month when Patrolman Leroy Sproul took a night off. He said he had the free night coming to him, but Police Chief Edwin Sloat differed with him. In the dispute, fists flew about carelessly. When the scrimmage was over the chief claimed that Sproul knocked him down and kicked him. Sproul charged that the chief hit him first. Fifteen minutes after the smoke cleared away, the pair met again. According to Sproul, the chief slapped him down. The chief says he thought Sproul was about to attack him.

Patrolman Sproul was promptly suspended by Chief Sloat, who preferred charges against him before the Borough Council, which will meet next Tuesday night to hear them.

In the meantime, the patrolman decided to do a little preferring of his own. So today he had a warrant served on the chief, charging assault and battery, and the chief did likewise against the patrolman. Each is held in $500 bail for the grand jury, while the third member of the Matawan police force is left to do all the patroling by himself.

Patrolman Sproul was in headlines once before. Two years ago he commandeered a passing automobile to catch a speeder. The occupant of the commandeered car happened to be John D. Rockefeller, who handed the surprised Sproul the usual dime when he got out to book his speeder.

Vital Extract Presented As New Enemy of Old Age

French Doctor Reports Isolation of Male Hormone, And Will Attempt to Produce Tablets to Be Taken in Ordinary Fashion.

Boston, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—A new method of rejuvenation that requires neither monkey glands nor operations was described to the Thirteenth International Physiological Congress today by Dr. Casimir Funk, of Paris.

He has isolated the vital principle of masculinity, or one of them known as the male hormone, and credited with being the effective agency behind results of gland grafting. This extract has been employed thus far only on animals, but Dr. Funk said his purpose is to attempt to reduce it to tablet that can be taken in ordinary fashion at a physician's prescription.

Dr. Funk has a worldwide reputation in medical science as one of the discoveries of vitamins and the man who coined the name.

This masculine hormone has been sought for some years and there have been other reports of isolation of extracts containing it. A difficulty has been to get an effective extract, and Dr. Funk showed the congress some remarkable pictures as proof of the power of his product.

The pictures first showed roosters, whose combs had wilted and whose wattles had shriveled because of loss of masculinity. Then he threw on the screen the same fowl 16 days after receiving the hormone extract, and the pictures showed the combs erect and wattles filled out. These rejuvenation effects, he said, had required only a few days compared with weeks for the shriveling process.

Dr. Funk said that clinical experiments upon applying the hormone to human beings will be undertaken in New York. He said that chemically the hormone appears to be similar to one of the female hormones which has been extracted successfully for some time.

Old age was attacked from a different angle in the same session by Dr. D. Kotsovsky, of Kischineff, Roumania.

Under his findings, instead of a woman being as old as she looks and a man as old as he feels, both are as old as their tissues. For in tissues, particularly those of the central nervous system, he said, he has found evidence of "the origin of senility." In them, he said, "the symptoms of age are first discovered."

To combat old age he advised that more study be devoted to care of these highly organized centers. They are the first to be affected by lack of proper food, he said, and the first to feel loss of sleep. Their organization is so complex that it is difficult to give them proper food, their health depends upon other organs, and they are likely places for poisons to accumulate from their own wastes. Sleep he considered highly important both to growth of these tissues and their recovery from wear, but heredity is the most important factor of all.

AUTO RACES ON CARD TODAY AT ROCKVILLE

Rain Puts Track in Good Condition for Seven Events Scheduled.

KEECH'S CAR WILL RUN

Automobile races under the sanction of the American Automobile Association will be the chief feature of the closing day of the Rockville Fair today. Several dirt-track drivers of prominence will participate in the races.

The rain yesterday completed the work of the earlier downpour, and the track is in good condition for the races today, with the dust fairly well under control. Seven events have been scheduled. The qualifying trials will begin at 2:30 o'clock.

Among the pilots will be Bob Robinson, who will race in the speed car formerly owned by the late Ray Keech. He has not been defeated on a dirt track so far, and hopes to continue his string of victories today. Herman Schurch, Douglas Wallace, Larry Beals and Al Aspen are some of the other famous drivers who are scheduled to compete. Others who will participate are Tom Dawson, Bobby Green and Bill Hoffman.

Fair officials yesterday were worried that the gate receipts would result in a deficit, for, in spite of the excellent weather which has prevailed at the fair, the gates have not been as well attended as in previous seasons.

Results of the races run yesterday were:

First race—Schley B. Landslip and Elopement.

Fourth race—Lon, Ray Hindoo, Dr. Huff.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

IT may be that the reason Mr. Hoover has so few friends in the Senate is that he will not recognize as issues the matters which the senators conjure up as such.

The word comes out that the President does not consider the tariff an issue; that he sees nothing about it at all to cause him any loss of sleep. Months and months have been spent in working up the tariff as an issue. The Democrats worked diligently to make it one against the Republicans and the Republicans have worked assiduously to make it one among themselves.

It took months and months of work to do this, to get all the politicians keyed up and in fighting trim. And then, with stage all set for a knock-down-and-drag-out fight, Mr. Hoover quits and says he will not play.

* * * *

IT means simply that there will be no regulation bout now at all.

It will be a battle royal. The Republicans will knock each other down and the Democrats will fall over themselves and lambast the Republicans.

And when it is all over the senators will stand dazedly, with tattered shirts and rent collars, looking around through bruised eyes to find that the one real big man has run away, entirely escaped the fray. The only one that was worth hitting, the big prize, will not have been hit at all. What kind of a fight is that?

It will be a keen disappointment to those who like politics better than anything, to those who dote on political scraps. Mr. Hoover's attitude will seem unfair to them.

* * * *

OF course, when all is said and done, all of this hullabaloo about the tariff is hollow and a sham. The only way for agriculture to get equality out of the tariff is for the industrial rates to be reduced, and that brings up the argument of whether such reduction would not lower the country's consuming power, which would in turn hurt agriculture. But the talk of raising agricultural rates to the industrial level is the bunk, purely and simply that.

That, however, is beside the question. Politicians must have issues. They are the life of their trade. They must have issues to be re-elected on. They must have issues with which to keep their jobs.

And by all the political rules of the years and years that have gone into the political life of this country, the tariff has been an issue.

* * * *

IT was agreed that it should be an issue this year. The Democrats sat nervously over many weeks, fearing that the President would not call an extra session, and so did those of the Republicans who come up for reelection next year.

The Republicans were to pass a tariff that would return them to office, and the Democrats were to raise so much cain that the Republicans would be kept out of office. The tariff was to be an issue. Thousands and thousands of words have been written in the past few months about the casualties that the tariff would cause.

The preliminary work has all been done. Both sides are massed for the fray, or rather three sides are massed for a three-cornered one.

Then, lo and behold, the President is represented as concluding that the country is not interested in whether a tariff is passed or not. If the senators want to go ahead and fight anyway, he has no objection, but he will not get in. What a fine fight there will be!

Mr. Hoover is a new kind of President. He won't follow the old rules. He is really taking all the fun out of politics.

PRESIDENT PLANS TO STEER CLEAR OF TARIFF BATTLE

about concluded that the country is not "het up" about the tariff bill. There is evidence on all sides that in this conclusion he is on safe ground.

Such a terrible yelp was let up after the passage of the House bill that Mr. Hoover was represented as being genuinely concerned. Now that he has noted how the country failed to react to the Democratic mass attack, one of the most persistent and efficient ones that the minority has ever delivered, he is said to believe that it is not the tariff that need give him concern.

Will Take No Hand in Fight.

And holding this view it is said that he has no intention of taking a hand in the tariff fight. It is possible, of course, that such a monstrosity may be evolved, arousing such a hue and cry, that he might be forced to change his mind. But at this time the threats of the Democrats and Progressives may be said to be falling on deaf ears in so far as he is concerned.

This means, of course, that he does not fear a tariff issue next year, or if it is an issue, that let those who brought it about or who got themselves into the mess get out of it. His two great personal issues will be the Farm Board, which is lending money and that eases a lot of dissatisfaction, and naval armament reduction.

That the tariff fight is not getting the rise out in the country that was expected is reported by every observer who has been doing any traveling recently. This is explained generally by the fact that everybody is so busily engaged in making money that they are not concerned.

Certainly there is not the pressure from big business this time that there has been in the past. Big business has gotten so big that it can about take care of itself. If it is not this it is generally so well taken care of that it has not become greatly exercised by the pending bill. Evidence of this lies in the fact that there has been no slowing up of business during the uncertain consideration of the measure.

Small Fry Clamors.

It is the small fry that is doing most of the clamoring, and the small fry does not make issues that the politicians are afraid of.

In so far as the farm States are concerned the President would be on safe ground, many of his friends are saying, if he assumed that the whole tariff fight will be so educational to them that the reaction will be against those who provoked it, and not the President.

For example, it should have sunk into the farm States by now, it is contended, that the tariff can give them no material relief. A great surplus is now produced in all of the major crops, the big money crops. Getting rid of this surplus is the problem. It is not a case of keeping foreign goods out.

Those who are arguing this way say that all agriculture can get out of the whole mess is additional protection on such comparatively insignificant items as milk and peanuts, and to get this the entire tariff bill was opened up, which, just as surely as a bill is passed, will give industry the better of it. Industry, in the first place, more readily lends itself to tariff aid.

It is recalled that it was not the President, of course, who opened the matter up. It was the friends of agriculture.

To Revive Debenture Plan.

Of course, Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, plans to revive the debenture plan, and should he succeed in tacking this onto the tariff bill they would be something definite and tangible for agriculture, an outright bounty. This plan, however, could not get by the President.

It would appear at first blush that with the President taking no hand in the fight and not being concerned with what is done, that the Democratic-Progressive alliance could easily write its own bill, adding protection to peanuts and dairy products and holding industry where it is. But it will not do that. After all the raving and ranting there will be the usual trading and everybody will get something.

But regardless of how it comes out the President is now being represented as feeling that if there is to be a tariff issue it will be one which the members of the House and the senators make among themselves. They can't hook him in. He doesn't care whether a bill is passed or not.

Democrats Are Massing.

In the meantime, the Democrats are massing for their part in the big show. Those who are members of the finance committee met yesterday and agreed upon a program of opposing virtually every major item the Republicans have recommended. They are not only to frame substitute amendments for changes made in the House bill by the finance committee, but rates which the Senate committee did not change.

Particularly are they to aim their fire at the administrative provisions of the bill. They hope to be able to repeal the flexible provisions of the Fordney-McCumber act. Senator Simmons, the minority tariff leader, pointed out that with the added authority given under the "competitive conditions" clause in the present bill the flexible provision becomes more iniquitous than it was.

RELEASED ASYLUM PATIENT IS SOUGHT IN SHOOTING

He has been variously described as a lawyer and a practicioner in other professions, but the police have been unable to learn much about his profession.

Joyce, who has acted as attorney in a number of insanity proceedings in the District Supreme Court, obtained the release of Wood from St. Elizabeths Hospital in 1926 after the latter had been confined there for six years, following the fatal shooting of Emmett Lanier, a soldier, at Seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue. Joyce also represented Wood when the latter sued his wife, Hattie L. Wood, of 1923 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, an employe at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, for absolute divorce. Wood charged that his wife and her alleged paramour consired to have him committed to St. Elizabeths Hospital.

Released in 1926.

Wood was released from St. Elizabeths Hospital June 4, 1926, by order of the District Supreme Court. His dismissal was obtained on a petition for habeas corpus in which he was represented by Joyce.

Prior to that Wood had made two unsuccessful attempts to gain his liberty, one of them going to the Court of Appeals.

His first petition, court records show, was filed June 30, 1925. That was dismissed on July 20, and exactly seven days later another habeas corpus action was instituted by his attorney, John A. Savage. The court dismissed that petition on August 1, and Savage carried an appeal from the court's decision to the District of Columbia Court of Appeals. The appeal was denied, and on June 29, 1926, when the mandate was received in the District Supreme Court, the appellate court decision was recorded.

However, on May 13, 1926, almost a month before the Court of Appeal's decision, Joyce instituted the proceedings on which Wood gained his freedom, prior to the high tribunal's decree.

Indicted for Assault.

Wood was indicted for assault with a dangerous weapon after shooting Lanier, regular Army sergeant, but he was not tried on the charge, as he had been found to be of unsound mind by a District Supreme Court jury. This verdict followed an examination of the man by Dr. D. Percy Hickling, District alienist, at the direction of the United States attorney's office. Dr. Hickling reported Wood was suffering from paranoia.

In his divorce proceedings, which are still pending, he charges that his wife and her alleged paramour conspired to send him to St. Elizabeths in November, 1920, for mental observation. He charges that a month after he entered the institution his wife instituted lunacy proceedings, but states that a jury found him to of sound mind, and his release followed. He tells the court that upon his release he learned of the alleged conspiracy and promptly shot the alleged paramour. The court, on motion of the wife's attorney, ordered the part about the alleged conspiracy stricken from the record, but allowed the allegations of misconduct to remain in the bill of complaint.

Wood named two corespondents, J. E. Rusk, of Ednor, Md., and Fred Sonne, of the same address as his wife. Joyce is attorney of record in this action, which is docketed for trial at the fall term of court.

Wood, according to records in the various cases involving him, is a veteran of the Spanish-American and World Wars and at one time was under mental observation at Walter Reed Hospital. He also is said to have been a patient at the Government Hospiati at Balboa at one time.

Wood is said to be about 58 years old, while Joyce is about 68.

Holman Takes Lead.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Charles W. (Speed) Holman took the lead in the Portland-Cleveland air race by arriving here at 3:14:30 p. m. today for an elapsed time of 1:55:12 from Portland. He had a lead of only 14 seconds over T. A. Wells, of Wichita, Kans., who arrived here at 3:12 and had an elapsed time of 1:55:26.

Holman and Wells led six other planes here from Walla Walla, where the contestants flew from Portland on the first leg of the race. All eight will stay here overnight and leave at 7 a. m. for Missoula, Mont., on the third lap of the derby. The late start at Portland today caused a change in the original plan, which called for arrival at Missoula today.

When Holman and Wells arrived in Walla Walla, Wells was leading Holman by 16 seconds.

The elapsed time of the other contestants follow: Tex Rankin, Portland, 2:03:31; W. H. Emery, Bradford, Pa., 2:04:03; W. B. Clark, Portland, 2:20:37; Maj. G. H. Eckerson, Springfield, Oreg., 2:22:04; Dick Rankin, Portland, 2:24:01; Sydnor Hall, St. Louis, 2:49:38.

On the flight from Walla Walla the aviators, who left Portland during a rain, ran into a dust storm which forced them to fly at an altitude of 5,000 feet. Clarence Bates, of Milwaukee, Wis., who left Portland with the others this morning, crashed near Veil, Oreg., and was forced from the race. Bates was uninjured, but his plane was damaged considerably.

Louise Von Thaden in Lead.

Wichita, Kans., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Maintaining her lead of nearly an hour in elapsed time, Louise McPhetridge Von Thaden, of Pittsburgh, former Wichita girl, late today led the contestants in the $25,000 Santa Monica to Cleveland Air Derby into Municipal Airport here.

Ten of the ladybirds had skimmed across the landing field by 5 o'clock. Mrs. Thaden was clocked across the finish line at the night stop here at 3:17:37 o'clock. She had landed before the plane of Ruth Nichols, Rye, N. Y., appeared on the horizon.

The elapsed time of the Pittsburgh flier was computed at 13:25:23 out of Santa Monica, with a lap time from Tulsa of 47 minutes and 37 seconds.

Women Arrivals at Wichita.

The elapsed time table follows:

Heavy planes—Louise McPhetridge Von Thaden, Pittsburgh, 13:25:53; Gladys O'Donnell, Long Beach, Calif., 14:05:59; Ruth Nichols, Rye, N. Y., 14:33:09; Amelia Earhart, Boston, 14:48:09; Ruth Elder, Hollywood, 13:06:13; Neva Paris, Great Neck, Long Island, 19:50:34; Mary Von Mack, Detroit, 19:56:14; Opal Kunz, New York, 24:12:23; Vera Dawn Walker, Los Angeles, 25:10:25.

Light planes—Phoebe Omlie, Memphis, 16:30:16; Thea Rasche, Germany, 20:05:55; Mrs. Keith Miller, Australia, 27:21:28; Mrs. Edith Foltz, Portland, 28:30:28.

U. S. Asks Disqualification.

Race officials late today received a telegram from the Department of Commerce at Washington advising them that the license for the plane of Miss Thea Rasche had expired July 15 and asking that she be withdrawn from further competition.

Mary Von Mack, Detroit, left the Tulsa airport with the other fliers, but soon returned because of sickness, then hopped off again for Wichita, checking in at 6:03:52.

Each of the fliers spoke in to a microphone before leaving the field and a plane overhead broadcast a running account of the arrivals through radio station KFH, Wichita.

Ruth Elder Loses Useless Map.

Ruth Elder, who lost her way and landed at Braggs, Okla., said she lost her map at Fort Worth, but that "it didn't make any difference anyway, because I never could find anything on a map."

Police tonight kept a close watch over the hangar in which the planes were quartered to guard against possibility of sabotage.

Miss Hailip, forced down several times in Oklahoma with oil trouble, arrived tonight at 6:43:02. Mrs. Blanche Noyes, of Cleveland, arrived at 6:52:59.

All the fliers are accounted for. Margaret Perry, Los Angeles, forced down out of the flight because of illness, is not expected to join the fliers. She is in Fort Worth.

Efforts are being made to clear up the difficulty which grounded Thea Rasche's plane on orders of the Department of Commerce.

Action on Thea Rasche Denied.

Richard S. Paulett, assistant to Jesse W. Lankford, chief of the licensing section of the aeronautics branch, Department of Commerce, said last night that no information regarding Miss Thea Rasche's license or that of her plane had come to his notice.

"I am sure," he said, "that if any action had been taken by the Department of Commerce, I should have known of it." He is serving in Lankford's place while the latter, who is a captain in the Air Corps Reserve, is on two weeks' active duty at Langley Field, Va.

According to Paulett, Miss Rasche might be grounded at any point by a local representative of the Department of Commerce if her license appeared irregular. However, he indicated that such irregularity probably would have been discovered in the bureau here.

ENGLAND IS UNEASY AT HAGUE COLLAPSE

Press Demands That Cabinet Be Called to Consider Grave Situation.

FRANCE IS OPTIMISTIC

London, Aug. 23 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—With Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald ready to fly to London from Lossiemouth tomorrow, following receipt by him in the Scotch Highlands today of an important message regarding the situation at The Hague conference, the Liberal Daily News and the Tory Morning Post have united in demanding a cabinet meeting to consider the crisis at the intergovernmental reparations parley.

The Labor ministers are widely scattered, one of the "Big Four" of the MacDonald government, J. H. Thomas, minister of labor, being in Canada. There was a hint tonight, however, that the other three members of the "Big Four"—MacDonald, Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, and Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson—may get together within the next few days to consider the grave situation created by the stalemate at The Hague.

It is assumed here that MacDonald, Aristide Briand, premier of France, and Gustav Stresemann, German foreign minister, will try to find a way out of the present impasse when they meet at the September assembly of the League of Nations.

Country Supports Snowden.

The country still supports Snowden in his demand that the Spa percentages be applied in division among Germany's creditors of the annuities the Reich is to make under the Young plan. But there is obvious disquiet tonight at what appears to be the certain breakdown of The Hague conference on this issue. As some financial settlement in Europe has to be made and as the original English view that collapse of the Young plan deliberations would restore the Dawes plan to operation has had to be abandoned, in view of continental realities, there is anxiety here as to what is going to happen next.

"MacDonald is in an awkward position because, whatever he does, opinion here will seemingly not tolerate any concessions from him at Geneva greater than the implacable Snowden would make at The Hague. To further complicate the situation he faces, the reparations conference and naval negotiations have become linked in the public mind, owing to the belief that collapse at The Hague would make it more difficult for Great Britain and the United States to persuade the Latin powers to restrict their naval building programs.

Country Is Disappointed.

Accordingly, there is disappointment here tonight because news from The Hague indicated imminent collapse of the negotiations under the thin cloak of an adjournment, and also because Ambassador Charles Gates Dawes' speech at Elgin today failed to sound the optimistic note which was expected. The note of anxiety sounded in the daily newspapers is even more apparent in the weekly reviews. They still support Snowden's stand, but at the same time call attention to the perils of failure at The Hague.

The Spectator editorially urges the British chancellor to rest content with having established his principles. Mere money gain, it adds, would not counterbalance the damage that would result from collapse of The Hague parley. The Nation joins the Spectator in calling attention to the fact that breakdown of the reparations conference would seriously check advance toward disarmament.

(Copyright, 1929.)

Paris, Aug. 23 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Weary of the bickering at The Hague, Paris is in conciliatory mood and is fervently hoping that the conference will wind up with some kind of an agreement to its credit.

Optimism Gains.

Press and public alike are more optimistic today and believe that a complete breakdown will be avoided. In strong contrast with the attitude they have maintained until now, the French have ceased to clamor for firm stand against British Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden. Instead, they are urging all delegates to make every possible effort to avoid a rupture.

Even the Journal Des Debats, which has been most consistently hostile to the British chancellor, counsels conciliation on the ground that "an agreement insuring, sooner or later, application of the Young plan is certainly the lesser evil. If the conference were a complete failure we should have to go temporarily to the Dawes plan and face all sorts of other difficulties and fresh negotiations more delicate than the present ones.

Something Would Be Gained.

"It will be something gained, at least, if an understanding is reached for execution of the Young plan. Nevertheless, even then, it would be a mistake to imagine all was over, for numerous questions of great importance will remain to be settled and it will be impossible to say that a definite solution has been found. Let there be settlement, then, if possible, even in imperfect conditions. But nothing will convince us that The Hague parley has been wisely conducted."

BRITON DECRIES U.S. PROSPERITY CLAIM

Political Institute Speaker Declares It Brought Plea for Debt Cancellation.

OVERRATED, HE AVERS

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—America's overrating of her own prosperity has been responsible for Europe's request for cancellation of war debts, Prof. T. E. Gregory, of the London School of Economics, said today before the trade relations roundtable of the Institute of Politics.

Declaring that America's prosperity, when viewed in the light of actual economic conditions, was not so great as she herself believed, Prof. Gregory said:

Civilization Standards, Issue.

"The United States rates her success on the basis of material acquisition—the number of motor cars and radios and shining bathtubs which she possesses. I doubt if these are standards of civilization or of real prosperity.

"But they have made Europe very dissatisfied with her position today. She has been poisoned by the talk about American prosperity. If you had not told us how rich you were we would not have asked for war debt cancellation. We are dissatisfied with what you have got."

"Prosperity Should Be Greater."

The prosperity which America enjoys today is due to her vast resources and land area, combined with a small density of population as compared to Europe, he declared.

The topography of the United States, enabling it to build railways at a relatively low cost, and the lack of trade barriers between any sections of the country are additional factors contributing to America's prosperity, he declared.

"The miracle is," he said, "not that you are as well off as you are but that you are not better off than you are."

Embargo on Northwest Grains to Be Modified

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 23 (A.P.). The nine-day embargo on oats, barley and rye from Northwest points to Minneapolis and Duluth and Superior, which went into effect today, will be modified next Monday when shipments of barley will be accepted. This decision was reached at a conference of shippers and grain men here today.

The tension in the Northwest grain marketing situation, which led to the embargo on recommendations of the Northwest Shippers Advisory Board, has been relieved by shipments at Duluth and Superior.

Autoist Disrobed, Girl Beaten in Road Attack

Mount Clemens, Mich., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Elaine Marschner, 19-year-old Detroit girl, was beaten and her escort, John Henry Rickel, 22, of Mount Clemens, was robbed and forced to partially disrobe by a man who accosted them last night as they were driving three miles north of Utica.

Miss Marschner, daughter of Edward O. Marschner, clerk for John V. Brennan, of recorder's court, was struck over the head with the butt of a revolver carried by the man when she attempted to escape. The bandit had previously ordered Rickel to disrobe. The couple was accosted when they paused to offer assistance to another motorist.

ENGLISH SPURN NEW PLAN; MORE MILLIONS DEMANDED

He reiterated that Great Britain wants the Spa percentages applied in division of German reparations. The present offer, he said, met less than 75 per cent of British claims.

As a result of Snowden's rejection of the new offer, settlement of the dispute between Great Britain and Germany's other principal creditors as to how German payments shall be divided among them is just as far off tonight as it has been at any time since The Hague conference convened August 6 and immediately fell into a deadlock.

The British chancellor's forteright refusal to compromise resulted in postponement until Monday of the plenary session of the six principal powers scheduled for tomorrow, at which it had been hoped an agreement, in principle at least, could be recorded. There seems no immediate hope of an agreement being reached before then.

The British chancellor's stand today dashed what little hope of an accord still remained in conference circles. The studied optimism which has been outwardly crumbled into frank dejection when his answer to the offer became known. The inevitable showdown has merely been put off until Monday. Louis Loucheur, French minister of labor, maintained tonight that Snowden's firm holding of his ground had struck a death blow at The Hague conference, and he admitted that the French delegation has completed its plans for leaving here Monday.

With the tide of pessimism at flood, neither France nor Italy are expected to dig deeply enough into their pockets to produce the money needed to satisfy Snowden. The Latin offer today approximated $5,869,000 yearly for Great Britain over the amount that she would receive under the Young plan as drafted by the committee of experts at Paris. Snowden, however, still holds out for the $11,433,000 annual increase which he demanded at the very beginning of the conference. No nation represented here is willing to cede the $4,764,000 needed to make up the difference between that offered Snowden today and what he demands.

France, Italy and Belgium now hope to get this money out of Germany somehow. Following today's meeting between M. Jaspar and Snowden, the four powers opposing the British stand again invited Germany into conference.

Germany Has Price.

At this meeting the principal German delegates — Foreign Minister Gustav Stresemann, Finance Minister Rudolph Hilferding, and Julius Curtius, minister of economic affairs—all made it clear that they were prepared to help find a few extra million marks for Great Britain—but at a price.

Germany, they said, is willing to consider increasing her unconditional payments if France and Italy will agree to take increased deliveries in kind to make up the difference. For helping drag The Hague conference out of the mud they also flatly asked evacuation of the Rhineland before January 1.

The Germans were the only delegates here who were able to carry smiling faces tonight to the banquet given by Queen Wilhelmina to 80 of the principal delegates. They feel that they are at last in a position to get something out of what Hilferding called the "cow trade."

Hitch in Offer.

Even the $5,869,000 offered Snowden today appears to be problematical when the offer is examined in detail, for it presupposes offering Britain the entire 68,460,000 marks made available by the overlapping of the Dawes plan and Young plan payments, the annual yield from which is calculated at $4,764,000. But the Germans have not yet surrendered their claim to a share of this money. The remaining $1,105,000 of "scrappings from the reparations till" occasioned some excitement this morning because the Italians were reported to have contributed a large portion of it. But when the concession was examined it proved to be simply a guarantee for $1,667,000 Italy might get as her share of sums due the reparations commission by the succession states which were given slices of the old Austro-Hungarian Empire by the Treaty of Versailles.

Edouard Benes, foreign minister of Czechoslovakia, presented a memorandum today in which he declared that his country does not owe the reparations commission a cent, as Czechoslovakia has claims more than outweighing its obligations. The French support Benes' contention, saying that his claim was entitled to consideration.

Political Danger.

The French saw a political danger in Italy's offer to "sacrifice" her claim on Czechoslovakia. If Italy were to guarantee payment of sums due by the succession states, she might exercise pressure on those states, particularly on Jugoslavia. This pressure, the French fear, would commence at once, as the eastern European reparations tangle has never been straightened out. It is known that neither Jugoslavia nor other middle European countries would not consent to pay for the benefit of the Young plan.

The upshot of today's confused negotiations was that the delegates hastened from the queen's dinner to a night session in the hope that they can still find somewhere the $4,764,000 they have been looking for in vain for more than two weeks. It was a lugubrious lot of diplomats who joined in the game of "Penny, penny, who's got the penny?"

No diplomats at The Hague has shown greater finesse than Queen Wilhelmina of The Netherlands did at her dinner tonight. Faced with many troublesome problems of precedence in the matter of seating her guests, she adroitly evaded them all by placing them at ten tables, seating eight persons each. And she discreetly served German, French and Italian wines with the thirteen courses.

U. S. POWER GROUP SPLIT BY FRICTION

BONNER TAKES ISSUE

Friction has developed within the ranks of the executive personnel of the Federal Power Commission over the "squeezing of water" out of public utility financial statements before granting Federal licenses, and coming at a time when the utilities are under congressional fire, is certain to direct the attention of Congress to the activities of the unit vested with control of the Nation's power resources.

Although dissension within the ranks is nothing new as far as utility matters is concerned, it has been brought to light for the first time and revolves around a split between Frank E. Bonner, new executive secretary, and Charles A. Russell, solicitor for the commission, over the making public of an office memorandum from the latter to William V. King, chief accountant, instructing him to squeeze the water out of finance of utility companies operating under Federal license.

Senator James Couzens, of Michigan, obtained a copy of the interoffice memorandum and gave it to the press. Bonner, who was in California at the time, has returned and not only takes issue with the commission's solicitor, but also claims the memoranda should not have been given out until he passed on it.

Row Expected to Be Quelled.

The row is expected to be quickly quelled by members of the power commission, composed of the Secretaries of War, Interior and Agriculture.

Bonner has attempted to reprimand "premature publication of the documand both Russell and King for the ments" and has stopped their execution. As a result, the Insull utilities may be permitted to include $500,000 in their capitalization of the Cumberland Falls project, in Kentucky, which the solicitor believes should not be there.

It is admitted that an embarrassing situation has arisen for the members of the commission. Bonner, as executive secretary, is the guiding force of the organization. For the commission to uphold the action of Russell will be to overrule their own executive.

Bonner, who was named executive secretary of the commission on July 1, is a protege of O. C. Merrill, former secretary, who recently resigned, to become chairman of the American section of the world power conference.

Insull Items Affected.

The capitalization of the Insull project, which brought to a head the present situation, included $250,000 for engineering and other services and a similar amount promised as a gift to the Kentucky Park Commission. Under the Insull opinion, now held up, all utilities receiving Federal licenses would be limited to actual net or "prudent investment costs."

The executive secretary was considerably vexed when he read in the press of the Russell opinion. He holds the view that the power commission should not live "in a glass house," and permit every one to look over its shoulder and see what it is doing. Moreover, he feels that much of the work of the commission is confidential. On the other hand, the past attitude of Congress clearly indicates that it will be in sympathy with the action of Russell in squeezing the water out of the utility finances. This presents another embarrassing angle for the new secretary.

Sam Myers Served District 25 Years

City Refuse Department Employe Honored by His Colleagues.

After 25 years of continuous service, during which he was never late for work, Sam Myers, of the City Refuse Department, spent the day yesterday acknowledging the good wishes of his fellow workers on his resignation, which is to become effective September 3, the seventieth anniversary of his birthday.

Myers, who was the central figure in the famous "block of five" letter case, which threatened for a time to disrupt the serenity of President Harrison's occupancy of the White House, at which time Myers was an employe of the Government Printing Office, at Rockport, Ind., plans to leave early in September for an extended "second honeymoon" in Cuba with Mrs. Myers.

His desk on the third floor of the District Building was banked with flowers yesterday, the gifts of his many friends, while his coworkers in the Refuse Department presented him with a fitted traveling bag. Of the many gifts showered upon him yesterday, however, Sam prizes most a card signed with the names of every member of the department, which he is having framed to hang in the honor spot on the wall of his home at 664 Maryland avenue northeast. He joined the City Refuse Department on November 18, 1904.

NAVY PARLEY PLAN HURT BY REPORTS

IDEA IS NEBULOUS YET

set for December and that London has been chosen as the scene.

Reports that the White House would announce Premier MacDonald's visit to the United States also proved unfounded. It is not certain whether he will come, as he will not come unless the negotiations reach a satisfactory stage to warrant the visit.

From the standpoint of keeping public interest aroused such reports may be harmless, it is conceded, but there is a possibility that foreign governments may be misled as to the real status of the negotiations and may properly wonder why their representatives have not been informed of any such progress. If Great Britain and the United States had actually reached an accord on the whole question and had agreed upon the time and place of the next conference, as erroneously reported, the governments of France, Italy and Japan would be in a position to charge effectively that a secret Anglo-American agreement had taken the place of the suspended Geneva preparatory commission without their knowledge or consent and had brushed French, Italian and Japanese interests aside as if they were of no consequence.

Of course, nothing of this sort has happened. The reason that the French, Japanese and Italian governments have not been informed of any Anglo-American agreement is because no such agreement has yet been reached even on the first stage of the negotiations. Premier MacDonald and Ambassador Dawes have not reached a point in their discussions where they can inform the other powers of any accord or any aspect of the situation. They have not even begun the discussion of details which will be all important and determinative of the success or failure of the conference.

To Be Consulted Later.

At the proper time, France, Italy and Japan will be consulted and given information as to what Premier MacDonald and Ambassador Dawes have sought to accomplish by their present private conversations.

The principles discussed should have an effect in guiding the deliberations which may be expected to feature the coming conference, but any Anglo-American understanding even in the matter of procedure will be subject to the approval of France, Italy and Japan. Any disapproval by any one power would be sufficient to upset the plan, because each power at the conference will be a sovereign power entitled to veto anything it does not approve, and every agreement must be unanimously agreed upon.

There is no basis whatever for the reports that a tripartite conference between the United States, Great Britain and Japan may be substituted for the 1931 conference provided for under the Washington treaty of 1922 or that a conference held late this year or in 1930 may replace the 1931 conference and at the same time exclude France and Italy.

Under the terms of the Washington treaty France and Italy can not be excluded from the conference. The President of the United States is solemnly pledged to invite them to participate and they are pledged to accept.

Conference Is Certain.

Because of the Washington treaty it is certain that a conference of Great Britain, America, France, Italy and Japan must be held and advancing the date of this conference would not affect the pledges of the powers to be represented. Any one power could prevent the date from being advanced but none of the powers could refuse to attend by 1931 without disregarding its treaty obligations.

In view of this situation the slow and careful progress of the MacDonald-Dawes negotiations is regarded as a hopeful sign in the sense that it shows how the ground is being prepared to avert the possibility of failure of the conference. But the whole program is incompatible with the reported spectacular rush method of an advance Anglo-American agreement with the setting of a date and the choice of the place of meeting before other interested powers have had a chance to be heard.

Another aspect of the situation is the fact that the Geneva Preparatory Commission adjourned its last session subject to call whenever the powers are ready to discuss the various yardsticks which were under consideration last spring.

Conversations Pertain to Question.

The negotiations now in progress between MacDonald and Dawes have a bearing on the yardstick question and the Geneva Preparatory Commission will meet in response to call when the time is ripe for such meeting. There is nothing to warrant the assumption that the United States and Great Britain intend to disregard the Geneva Preparatory Commission and leave that commission suspended in the air subject to the call of its chairman on the yardstick question.

The meeting of the commission will constitute one of the stages in the negotiations if the first stage is successfully reached and passed by the MacDonald-Dawes discussions. Discussion of methods with the other powers will constitute another stage. There are to be many stages and progress is to be slow, it is warned. The President is hopeful, but is not minimizing the many difficulties of a necessarily slow progress toward his desired goal.

NAVY CUT PROGRESS REVEALED BY DAWES

Negotiations Must Be Kept Secret for While Yet, Envoy Warns.

TALKS ARE INTERRUPTED

Elgin, Scotland, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Definite assurance that the Anglo-American negotiations for naval reduction have favorably advanced was given today by Gen. Charles G. Dawes in a speech here. At the same time he warned that they have not necessarily reached the proper stage for public discussion in detail.

"We must realize," he said, "that the one unforgivable thing now would be inadequate preparation for the proposed naval conference."

Although the American Ambassador and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald met once again here today it was in ceremonious circumstances which did not lend themselves to continuance of the naval conversations begun at the neighboring town of Forres soon after the arrival of the ambassador in England.

The prime minister, who was made a burgess of the town, spoke only on local topics, but Gen. Dawes brought up the subject that was in everyone's mind. The ambassador returned to London tonight, and the premier will follow in the morning.

Ambassador Dawes indicated that the efforts of the statesmen were directed toward reducing the naval yardstick and agreement to a simplicity easily understood by anyone, with a view to making it easier to obtain ratification on both sides of the Atlantic.

Prime Minister MacDonald was reported to have been urgently recalled to London by important advices from The Hague, where the Reparation Conference is at another crisis. It was assumed, therefore, that although both men will be in London, further conversations on naval subjects will await the result of The Hague situation and possibly also the impending assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva.

FIRST SOLO FLIGHT COMPLETED BY ANN

proved herself worthy of the confidence of the "Ambassador of Good Will." No less than three times did she take into the air all by herself, and each time she made a perfect landing, which caused grins of approval to show themselves on her flying instructor's features.

This was the first time in her life Mrs. Lindbergh flew solo. Her husband had been giving her flying lessons for only about nine hours this week at the Aviation Country Club at Hicksville—a rather short time, indeed, according to all the experts present.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindbergh reached the Country Club at 8:30 this morning, motoring out in an automobile. They breakfasted at the club, then went out on the field.

For about an hour they flew around together in the fledgling biplane, which is dual-controlled, landing repeatedly and taking off again. The few who watched could see that the junior "We" was fast "catching on" under the expert tutelage she was receiving.

After one of these landings by the pupil the teacher was seen climbing out of the plane. He spoke a few words to his pupil and she was off in a roar across the field, picking up speed.

The fledgling rose easily as the fledgling flier gave her "the gun" and pulled back the stick. She circled until she attained an altitude of 500 feet and then returned to the ground in an exceptionally good landing.

Col. Lindbergh stood silently watching and when the plane stopped rolling he walked over to the side of the fuselage and whispered a few words. No one knew whether it was encouragement or further fine points in the art of flying, but Mrs. Lindbergh was seen to nod and she was off for the second time.

Again she rose easily, climbed to a height of 500 feet, circled for several minutes around the field and came down again. Once more she made a perfect "three point" landing.

More whispers and more oral instructions and once more the "Flying Eagle" stepped aside and watched his young bride take to the air. Another circling of the field and another excellent landing.

At that point Lindbergh could no longer content himself remaining on the ground, so he climbed into the other seat and the firm of "We" was off again into its element. For half an hour they flew about, making frequent landings and takeoffs, then they called it a day.

Both Lindberghs wore parachutes during their flying. There were few club members about during the morning and only one or two flying. These kept off at a distance, and the fledgling "We" had the air pretty much to herself during her initiation as a solo flier.

Sentiment in Favor of Policy Is Expressed in His Mail.

(Associated Press.)

Sentiment in favor of President Hoover's policy of naval reduction is being expressed in letters on the subject received at the White House and the State Department.

The letters include many from individuals, various societies for the advancement of peace, school teachers and university professors and come from all parts of the country. Some 1,500 communications, approximately 96 per cent of which have indorsed the President's policy, have been received.

By far the greatest number of letters have been received from the Eastern States. The Middle West is second in its interest in the question. Very few letters have been received from the South. Philadelphia and Boston have provided the largest number among the large cities.

You Can't See It Until Sunday—

If it is certain that there will be a Sunday, then it is equally certain that there will be a Sunday Edition of The Washington Post . . . It is certain that there will be a front page story and innumerable other reports of happenings at home and throughout the world, but what these stories will concern — what personal effect, city, national or world-wide influence they will have, only the gods can foresee.

NEGLECT

"Laxity in inspection of switches found." The glaring headline in the daily paper continues: "Seven deaths caused by carelessness."

The news story continues that seven persons were instantly killed and a score were injured when a speeding train left the track where a switch had failed.

The failure of the switch, according to report of the investigation, was due to loss of a nut, and this in turn worked loose because a small cotter pin had become lost and had not been replaced.

Inspectors and assistants patrolled the tracks every day and this very switch was supposed to have been inspected a few weeks before.

But no one could say definitely just what condition it had been in at that time.

"Seven Deaths! Terrible, "you say, but wait—"

Seven times seven moral deaths occur in our city every day, because of neglect and carelessness.

Somebody's children right now are losing their grip on life's rapidly changing conditions.

They are not responsible. Their parents and guardians are the ones at fault.

Upon them rests the responsibility of knowing where their wards stand and of seeing that they have the proper moral training.

How are the moral conditions you are responsible for?

It's time for another inspection. Eternal vigilance is the price of security.

NAVAL NEGOTIATIONS.

President Hoover does well to put a quietus upon some of the headlong journalists who have told the public that an Anglo-American naval agreement is imminent, that the White House authorizes the announcement that Prime Minister MacDonald is soon to visit Washington, that a naval limitation conference is to be held in December, that London will be the scene of the conference, and that France and Italy are not to participate. None of these assertions is true.

The course of true harmony in international affairs never did run smooth. Both President Hoover and Ambassador Dawes took occasion yesterday to make clear the fact that no understanding has yet been reached between the British and United States governments that would warrant the calling of a conference. Whether or not such an understanding can be reached is still a question for the future. Preliminary conversations between Messrs. MacDonald and Dawes have evidently disclosed many obstacles that must be surmounted before the two governments will be in a position to sponsor a general conference. "The one unforgivable thing now," said Ambassador Dawes yesterday, "will be inadequate preparation for the next conference."

A meeting between President Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald, to be followed by the statement that nothing but mutual good wishes had resulted, would have a most unfortunate effect upon British-American relations, by convincing the peoples of both countries that a naval agreement was not obtainable. It is inconceivable that Mr. MacDonald will come to Washington before reaching an understanding with Ambassador Dawes which would justify Britain and the United States in sponsoring a naval conference whose successful outcome would be assured.

Two vitally important factors must be dealt with successfully by Mr. MacDonald in order to pave the way for a naval conference. First, he must formulate a program which, while meeting the United States half way, will be acceptable to the opposition in Parliament and to the British admiralty. Since the parliamentary opposition and the admiralty are resolutely opposed to any arrangement that would leave British sea power questionable, and since their opposition can bring to naught any proposal of the MacDonald government, it is obvious that the American desire for actual reduction of navies, rather than mere limitation, constitutes a most difficult problem for Mr. MacDonald. Secondly, no agreement or understanding can be reached between Great Britain and the United States without the concurrence of France, Italy and Japan, for the reason that the attitude of the first two powers mentioned vitally concerns British naval policy. Mr. MacDonald must consider conditions in Europe as they would exist under a revised naval program, and he dares not revise his program downward unless France and Italy also agree to make revisions.

That these difficult problems can be solved in the next few weeks is very improbable. The course of the conference on the Young plan at The Hague does not tend to expedite a general preliminary understanding upon which a naval conference can be based. As Ramsay MacDonald is a careful and far-seeing man, it goes without saying that he will not make the mistake of visiting Washington before he feels sure that the obstacles to a naval understanding have been removed.

NULLIFYING THE SHIPPING ACT.

The increased pay allowed to American vessels carrying the mails, under terms of the Jones-White merchant marine act, according to officials of the Shipping Board, amounts to a substantial subsidy without which American ships can not prosper. The statement was made in connection with the difficulties which the Export Steamship Corporation has had in obtaining a construction loan grant from the board. The application was referred to the interdepartmental board constituted to pass upon applications for mail contracts, because, unless assurance could be obtained in advance that the mail contracts would be awarded, there would not be an adequate guarantee of the security for the loan.

The Shipping Board's statement assumes increased importance in view of the delay encountered by the United States Lines in obtaining a mail carrying contract. In July Postmaster General Brown directed a letter to Joseph A. Sheedy, executive vice president of the lines, in which he says that "it appears from the representation of P. W. Chapman & Co., Inc. (owner of the lines), that the annual earnings available would be in excess of $2,500,000 a year. It would seem that the financial condition of the United States Lines does not require, and would not justify, a postal contract such as you have made application for."

Mr. Brown invited the United States Lines to submit "anything further" in support of its application, and in response to the invitation Mr. Chapman hastened to Washington to plead that his optimistic prediction, published in a prospectus, was based upon the expectation that the United States Lines would, as a matter of course, obtain mail contracts. The annual value of such contracts is estimated at from $1,350,000 to $2,400,000 with the present vessels, and $3,375,000 if the speed of the vessels were increased by the construction of the two proposed first-class vessels to run with the Leviathan. If the estimates are accurate, it is obvious that the mail contracts represent the difference between profit and loss for the United States Lines.

The Shipping Board's contention in the Export Steamship Corporation case, that the mail contracts represent, in effect, a subsidy to make possible profitable operation of American-owned vessels, is in harmony with the letter and intent of the Jones-White act. The Postoffice Department's attempt to withhold mail contracts because of an impression that ships of the United States Lines are making money, is in direct contradiction to the letter and intent of the Jones-White act. The law intends that American-owned vessels shall be operated at a profit, and to this end mail subventions are provided for. Congress has appropriated the money with which to pay for mail carriage. Apparently the Postoffice Department has adopted the theory that mail contracts should be awarded only to shipping concerns that are losing money. This policy is nothing less than a breach of faith on the part of the Government. Congress can not countenance this nullification of the merchant marine act.

FASCISM IN AUSTRIA.

Warlike threats and demonstrations by political factions of Austria are common occurrences. Enmity between the Schutzbund, private military organization of the Socialist party, and the Heimwehr, privately armed Fascist organization, has been steadily gaining momentum during the last few months. The recent pitched battle between these two forces at St. Lorenzen gives a more serious aspect to their political quarrel. The troops were armed with machine guns and rifles. Before the gendarmes could put a stop to their firing 62 persons were wounded and 1 killed.

It has been evident for some time that the Fascists aim to overturn the existing Socialist government. Differences between the two factions reach back as far as the founding of the Austrian republic. The Socialists, who obtain their chief strength from the provinces, have been repeatedly threatened by the Facists of "red" Vienna. Last spring Dr. P. Friemer, generalissimo of the Heimwehr, threatened a "march on Vienna, arms in hand," and declared that 200,000 Fascists throughout the country stood "with rifles ready." In spite of these warlike pretensions actual clashes have been few. Within the last month, however, the private armies have become more militant and rumors are current that the Austrian Fascists will march against Vienna this fall. Both organizations have been storing ammunition and military supplies and the prospects of a civil war are considered grave.

The Heimwehr is said to have the backing of industrialists of Vienna, and several members of the present Austrian government are reported to be in sympathy with its aims. In view of the widespread following commanded by the Fascists a revolt would seriously menace and perhaps overthrow the existing regime. Their plot will not, however, pave the way for a new Austrian monarchy, as foreign intervention could be expected under the treaty of St. Germain.

Austria has not succeeded in its experiments with a republican form of government. Following the resignation of Chancellor Seipel last spring the formation of a government was most difficult. Dissatisfaction is now widespread, and unemployment prevalent. If the Fascists are determined to proceed with their coup d'etat it will not be difficult to plunge the little republic into turmoil.

THE QUIMISTAN.

A Coast Guard cutter and a destroyer are scouring the Atlantic about 600 miles east by south of Boston for the abandoned hulk of the Quimistan, a former banana freighter which was cleared and allowed to sail from the port of Norfolk on August 14. When the President Harrison, of the Dollar Line, reaches New York today, 26 survivors will be landed. That these sailors are not resting in Davy Jones' locker is due to the mercy of Providence and the alertness of Capt. J. H. Benson, of the President Harrison.

It seems, from information reaching Washington, that the Quimistan, which had sailed under several different flags during her half century of plowing the deep, had been condemned and was to have been scrapped when she reached Genoa with her hold full of other scrap. Her condition was such that her former master, Capt. Wiesse, together with his entire crew, refused to attempt to cross the ocean with her. But the mate was willing to take the chance. He picked up seven men ready to sign on in Norfolk and obtained a score of others in New York. The ship sprung a leak on Sunday afternoon and was set on fire and abandoned before daylight on Monday.

Members of the crew who were rescued by the President Harrison assert that "her decks, hatches and hull could be punctured with a cream puff. Her engines were patched and tied with twine. "Concrete filling had been poured into a hole in her bow."

Making due allowance for the exaggerations of sailormen, there can be no question that the Quimistan was unseaworthy. Officials who permitted her to leave port must have been aware that she was unfit to battle with the storms of the Atlantic. The fact that the Quimistan was registered under a foreign flag does not excuse American inspectors from taking ordinary precautions to prevent the loss of life of members of the crew, engaged in American ports and presumably of American citizenship.

When abandoned the Quimistan was near the sea lane generally traversed by transatlantic liners at this season, and it is for this reason that the Coast Guard and the Navy are searching in the vicinity of the point of abandonment, so that she may be destroyed as a menace to navigation.

The question as to who is responsible for allowing the Quimistan to clear port with a rotten hull and patched machinery should be solved without delay. Are there any other ships in the same condition leaving American ports today? Members of the International Conference for Safety at Sea have finished their labors in London. They may find something in the same line right here at home to occupy their attention.

With every chair occupied, say experts, the temperature in the Senate chamber rises 7 to 8 degrees. What happens when Bill Borah is called to the cloakroom?

HENRY FORD DISCUSSES BOOZE

Henry Ford, in Pictorial Review.

For myself, if booze ever comes back to the United States I am through with manufacturing.

I would not be bothered with the problem of handling over 200,000 men and trying to pay them wages which the saloons would take away from them. I wouldn't be interested in putting automobiles into the hands of a generation soggy with drink.

Without prohibition industry would of necessity decline to the position it occupied at the beginning of the century. Without prohibition a short working week and day would be no longer possible. Without prohibition accurate workmanship would be impossible.

The reason why America is so far ahead of other countries industrially today, the reason America is so rich today, is prohibition. Foreign countries want America for their market because America, under prohibition, has the money. Their own countries, where liquor still runs free, are too impoverished to be profitable. That is the doom of the drink business—it ruins its own customers.

Just now the blind pig lives by the reflected light of a few prominent drawing rooms and clubs, but already it is no longer considered smart to drink. Hostesses who no longer desire their homes to be known as places where the laws are violated have done a great deal to make it unfashionable to serve drinks at society functions. Their example will be followed by those less well-poised women who get their smart ideas from clever magazines. There will be no hurrah about it, no publicity, no moral appeal or anything of that sort; the social drink, so called, will simply disappear with the other things that are not done. Women originated this reform, they are its chief beneficiaries, they will be the chief sufferers under any return of liquor to the United States; and if they uphold the law in their homes we need bother very little about other places where the law is violated—they will automatically disappear.

With booze in control we can count on only two or three effective days' work a week in the factory—and that would destroy the short day and the five-day week which sober industry has introduced. When men drank two or three days a week, industry had to have a ten or twelve hour day and a six or seven day week. With sobriety the workingman can have an eight-hour day and a five-day week with the same or greater pay.

Gasoline and booze don't mix; that's all. Booze doesn't go with industry. I would not be able to build a car that will run 200,000 miles if booze were around, because I wouldn't have accurate workmen, and without accurate workmen I could not get the necessary precision in work, even with machinery, because more people are making the machinery to make the car today than make the car itself. To make those machines requires that the men increase their skill. With drink they could not do it, because booze destroys brain-power. It causes inaccuracy, and when men do poor work they lose interest, which is the greatest calamity that can happen.

It is interest in life and work that makes the world go round, that keeps people alive, and creates the energy and enthusiasm necessary to accomplish and discover the best things. That is why we have made such great strides in modern times. There has been a general increase of interest in people's minds. They are waking up to the interesting things there are on this earth instead of lying around idle, dulling their brains with booze.

Prohibition is effective with 99 per cent of our population. Personal liberty is so much increased by the Nation's emancipation from alcoholic addiction that it is childish willfulness to talk about infringement of rights. I believe in personal liberty, but in my long observation I have never seen beverage alcohol do anything but destroy personal liberty.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE SULKER.

A plan of his has gone astray
And so he mopes the hours away,
And sees no beauty in the day.

All joy, all charm he measures by
The narrow vision of his eye.
Beyond himself no hope can lie.

Since he has lost some trifling race,
He steps aside, with sulking face,
And calls the world a cruel place.

Friends come with many a joyous shout
And seek to rouse and coax him out,
But in his tent he stays to pout.

In time they cease to call, and so
Alone he stays to nurse his woe
Which daily greater seems to grow.

The sulker, surly and afraid
Sees only bitterness displayed
In that small world himself has made.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE:

There are just three ways to get things in this world. You can steal them, or accept them as a gift, or pay for them.

And since thieves come to grief and gifts are few, you must reconcile yourself to paying a price for the things you desire.

That is fair enough, for the things you need are priced within your reach; and if the other things require a payment that seems unjust, you are at liberty to let them alone.

The happiest people you will find are those who make canny bargains with life and never pay more than things are worth; the unhappy are those who have no proper sense of values and so barter away their little stock in trade without getting anything worth while in return.

What is your stock in trade? It's Time, Honey. You were given just so many short days to traffic with, and you must watch them narrowly and never part with one without getting full value in return.

I remember trying to explain all of this and teach you the relative worth of things when you were in the third grade. You won't remember that, perhaps; but you will remember the tears you shed when spelling time came.

At that time you spelled with care-free originality and your report card was a family scandal. I thought and thought of ways to make you understand the importance of spelling as the book did, and at last offered to give you a dime every time you brought home a paper marked "100."

That made a game of it. You didn't care so much for the dime, but you did earnestly desire to win. You brought home perfect papers and I thought I had made an excellent bargain.

But I hadn't counted on nerves. One day your teacher came to me all puzzled and distraught. "I can't understand Louise," said she. "Half an hour before the spelling lesson she becomes very nervous and before I've given out three words she is crying. What ails the child?"

You were getting perfect papers, but you were paying too much for them.

That was the beginning of a new era. We talked about relative values and agreed that other things are more important than perfection in spelling.

Under the terms of our new agreement, you were to study hard enough to "get by"—that was your expression—but you were not to lead the class. Outdoor play was to come first and books second, for a teacher's praise is too expensive if you must have hollow eyes to get it.

I mention the matter now because you have a blistered shoulder as a result of too much tennis and your eyes are red as a result of reading too late at night. You are paying a little too much for your fun.

The price of things in dollars doesn't matter much, for you can get more dollars. But you can't get more health or more days, and I want you to examine price tags carefully and be sure the thing you get is worth what it costs you.

DAD.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

MIDSUMMER.

(With the customary flag-dipping to John Townsend Trowbridge.)

Around this lovely valley rise
The purple hills of paradise.

I see them if I look with care
Behind the rows of billboards there.

Becalmed along the azure sky
The argosies of cloudland lie—
Unless it is a slight mistake
Caused by the dust the buses make.

Through all the long midsummer day
The meadowsides are sweet with hay
(Or would be if it were not for The wayside restaurants galore).
I seek the coolest sheltered seat
Just here the field and forest meet—
Where grow the pine trees tall and bland
And under them the "hot dog" stand,
The "We Fix Flats" shop and the bunch
Of wagons called the "Wayside Lunch."

I watch the golfers as they go
With angry glares their clubs they swing—
But do not seem to hit a thing.
Ahead the nimble caddies run
Replacing divots, one by one.
The cattle graze and calmly browse
(No, my mistake, they're signboard cows);
And over all my eyes they feast
On ads for face cream, garters, yeast.
The butterfly and bumblebee
Inhale the gasoline with me;
Quickly before me runs the quail
With sixteen Fords upon its tail;
High up the lone wood-pigeon sits
Distracted, frightened out of wits.
Sweet woodland music seems to swell:
"Honk! Honk!" . . . "Get over!" . . . "Who?" . . . "Likell!"
The swarming flivvers drone and hum
With tourists who look dull and dumb;
The squirrel leaps from bough to bough
(And I would, too, if I knew how).
The oriole flashes by; and, look
Into the mirror of the brook
Where picnickers are cutting capers
There fall the tattered Sunday papers.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Individualism and Liberty America's Great Contribution to the World. Gov. Ritchie Praised for Demanding Return to American Principles.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Florence S. Auguste, writing in your issue of the 21st instant, says: "If Gov. Ritchie had the power to carry out his ideas of government, eventually there would be no United States."

The lady is mistaken. Unless the steady encroachment of Federal power upon the States is checked, what she writes might possibly in a measure come to pass.

It took several thousand years of struggle before individualism flowered out into the Constitution of the United States, and individualism as it was revealed in American is the greatest political achievement of the human race. Individualism with liberty is exactly the American contribution to the world. That principle is being assaulted and threatened with overthrow, not by the folly of socialism, but by the folly of weaklings who can think only in mass terms, and who would destroy individual liberty in order that the weak and the unfit might live to plague society.

Gov. Ritchie is a Jeffersonian Democrat, and one of the ablest executives in America. His speech at the banquet on Jackson Day last year, in which he reviewed the basic laws of the land and urged a return to fundamental principles, which were being swept aside in a frenzy of reforms, dictated by bigots and fanatics, stamped him as a statesman and one of the ablest champions of individualism in our country.

Probe of Gallinger Hospital Should Be Made by Parties Who Have No Connection With It.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have read with the greatest interest Duncan Price's articles on conditions in Gallinger Hospital. I am not at all surprised, for they are the same conditions as existed in the old Washington Asylum. In the latter days of Mr. Roosevelt's administration I was on one of his boards, with Dr. Kober also a member. I was intensely interested in the Emergency Hospital at that time, and at one of the meetings I told Dr. Kober that our hospital could not possibly take proper care of its charity patients on the amount of money the Board of Charities allowed us. His answer was that at the Washington Asylum they could care for them at much less and that if we could not care for them on the amount the Board of Charities allowed us we had bettert close our doors. Later, in Mr. Taft's administration, I had several members of the Board of Charities up before Mr. Taft and there they said the Washington Asylum was an example of how a hospital should be run.

I protest against the present Board of Public Welfare (which consists of nearly all the members of the old Board of Charities) conducting a probe into conditions at the Gallinger Hospital. Such a probe, to have any effect, should be conducted by people who have no connection with that hospital.

MRS. T. T. GAFF.

Gov. Ritchie Represents the Great Majority When He Demands Home Rule and States' Rights.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The criticism of Gov. Ritchie, that matchless champion of the people's rights, contained in a letter to The Post of August 21, will be acquiesced in by probably about 1-100,000,000 of 1 per cent of the people of the District of Columbia who do not and can not vote, but by not so high a percentage in the several States.

Citizens of the States who value the Constitution of the United States as well as the constitution of their own State prefer to be governed locally by the officials whom the people of their particular State elect to office. Gov. Ritchie is a champion of the State's rights and therefore a lover and guarder of the people's rights. For his courageous stand for these local rights which are guaranteed by the constitution of the various States he is greatly admired not only by the people of his own State, who are so fortunate in having such a fearless leader, but by the rank and file of the liberty-loving citizens of every other State in the Union.

Merely because Gov. Ritchie believes that the people of the various States are entitled to decide for themselves what local laws they shall enact and enforce, is no ground for criticism by that small minority who would swallow anything handed to them by others without even stopping long enough to taste the morsel on its way down.

Potomac Boat Club Crew Wins Post Trophy.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It gives me pleasure to inform you that I am directed by the sixtieth anniversary and regatta committees of the Potomac Boat Club to express to you our deep appreciation of your action in presenting a trophy for the four-oared gig event. I am happy to say that the trophy was won by one of our own crews and that it now reposes in our club.

We feel that our party was a huge success and are very grateful for your assistance in making it so, not only through presentation of the trophy but also through the generous publicity given in your paper.

E. L. MILLAR,
Chairman, Regatta Committee.

Sugar Duty Weighs Heavily Upon the Poor—Why Not Abolish It?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Why not abolish the tax on sugar entirely?

As Will Rogers says, we are taxing 120,000,000 sugar users, for the sole benefit of 1,200 sugar growers.

Is that common sense?

The sugar tax is one of the most iniquitous of all taxes, because it weighs with peculiar hardship on the poor.

The poorest woman pays just as much tax to sweeten her tea as the wealthiest.

Let us abolish the sugar tax, now.

WILL ATKINSON.

Congress' Activity Fails to Put Debutantes Out of Picture.

CONGRESSIONAL activity attendant upon the opening of Congress has set all the bigwigs buzzing so feverishly about national affairs that some persons are afraid that the poor little debutante is being "snowed under." What about the young girls who are making their debut next season, these curious ones are asking. Are they being lost sight of amid this congressional furore? Are they out of sight for the time being, or are they completely forgotten? Will they only be resurrected with the exotic orchids and twinkling dances of the late December season?

All this concern may be allayed in about two words. The "poor little debutante" of next season is not being either forgotten, elbowed out of the way, snowed under, shoved aside, brushed afield or any other term of this nature. In fact, the debutante of next year is very much in the limelight at the present time. She does not fear the rivalry of senator, representative, ambassador or minister, and she does not give a continental for all the hullabalioo now being raised on the Hill about tariffs, international complications, commercial treaties and such matters. She refuses to get excited about Congress (even when she is a congressman's daughter), and calmly pursues her beribboned way along the path that leads to a coming-out party this winter.

Some of the next season's debs are now abroad with their fond mothers picking out Paris frocks that will charm the young men into ecstasies of admiration, and some are basking on the Lido to acquire a sun-tan. Others are trying to obtain such vitality and vigor from the icy waters of Maine and the Adirondacks that these qualities will sustain them through all the ordeal of a Washington social season—and this is a real ordeal. So, if all these charming young creatures appear to be for the moment out of the spotlight, don't be fooled. They are only waiting and biding their opportunity.

So far, only two debutantes from the diplomatic set are scheduled to make their appearance in Washington this winter. These are Senorita Lucia Tessada Guzman, stepdaughter of the Cuban Military Attache, Capt. Enrique A. Prieto, and Senorita Sacasa, the daughter of Juan B. Sacasa, Nicaraguan Minister, who is now in Europe. In the Cabinet, there will probably be two young girls who will make their bow to society. They are Gertrude Lament, daughter of the Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Robert Patterson Lamont, who finished school last year, and Caroline Hyde, daughter of the Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Arthur M. Hyde.

Representative William Nolan, of Minneapolis, and his daughter will arrive in Washington the middle of September and will make their home at the Cavalier Apartments.

Senor Don Luis Marino Perez, Commercial Attache of the Cuban Embassy, has just returned from Europe on an official mission of the embassy. He is stopping at the Mayflower for an indefinite time.

CAPITAL MAN TELLS STORY OF KIDNAPING

Contractor Blames Beating for Six Weeks' Loss of Memory.

MADE WAY TO CHICAGO

After being almost given up for dead, Lucien T. Williams, 57 years old, contractor, missing six weeks, returned to his home yesterday in the 5800 block of Fifth street northwest. Ill and emaciated from hunger and harrowing experiences, he told of being kidnapped here, robbed and beaten until his mind became a blank, and of awakening only recently to his identity in Chicago.

Williams disappeared mysteriously July 13 after drawing about $300 from the Mount Vernon Savings Bank to pay his employes. He was last seen in the vicinity of Ninth and L streets northwest. According to his story yesterday, he met three men who asked him to accompany them to estimate the cost of a job.

After getting in their car, he said, he was taken out of the city against his will and then beaten and robbed. While unconscious he was thrown out on a road near Marion, Ohio, his clothing shorn of identification marks and his memory a blank. A farmer gave him work to earn his living, he said. Later, with the money he earned, he made his way to Chicago.

When he recovered his mental balance, the contractor had only a few dollars left, he related. He then set out for home hitch-hiking. He made the trip in four days.

He was in the care of a family physician yesterday, and his family refused to let anyone see him.

Alleged Fall on Walk Causes $10,000 Suit

As the result of an alleged fall on the sidewalk in front of Wolfe's Market, at 2627 Fourteenth street northwest, Louis Lesser, of 1343 Clifton street northwest, yesterday filed suit in District Supreme Court seeking to recover $10,000 damages from Percy L. Wolfe, operator of the market.

Lesser tells the court that he was walking along the sidewalk on August 27, last, and was thrown violently to the pavement when he tripped over a heavy wire protruding from a crate containing merchandise which was on the sidewalk. He claims permanent injuries. He is represented by Attorney Jacob Halper.

Bad Checks for $750 Are Laid to New Yorker

Joseph Mostin Cosgrove, 44 years old, a salesman, was brought here from his home in New York City yesterday and booked at police headquarters by Detective Sergt. Bernard W. Thompson on a charge of violating the bad check law.

According to police, Cosgrove passed five checks, totaling $500, at the Washington Hotel during the month of April. Police also said that the salesman gave Pearson & Crane, F street jewelers, a check for $250 for the purchase of jewelry, and the check turned out to be valueless.

Woman Is Discovered Unconscious in Bathtub

Found unconscious in the bathtub at her home, 1704 Vermont avenue northwest, Inez Martin, colored, 34 years old, was given first aid treatment for more than an hour yesterday afternoon by the fire rescue squad before she could be removed to Freedmen's Hospital for further treatment for gas asphyxiation, said by the police to have resulted from attempted suicide.

The woman was found by her husband, Percy Martin, who summoned the fire rescue squad. At Freedmen's Hospital last night it was said that her condition was undetermined.

Rescued Castaways Recall Three Days Adrift at Sea

President Harrison Radio Operator Sends Account of Picking Up Boats With 27 Men Who Fled Sinking Ship.

New York, Aug. 23 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The Dollar Liner President Harrison, bearing the castaways from the derelict freighter, Quimistan, was due at Quarantine late tonight.

During the day, K. Goss, second radio operator aboard the President Harrison, sent the following account of the rescue of the crew, fighting their way through heavy seas in small boats, hoping to make land:

"On Wednesday, August 21, at 2:35 p. m., a black object was sighted from the bridge by Third Officer Norman. It was about 5 miles away. From that distance the object appeared to be a fishing boat, and would have been passed save for the waving of a flag separate from the sail.

"This could not be seen by the naked eye, but only with the aid of a powerful telescope. Refraction caused the object to disappear at times, and gave rise also to doubts about its identity.

Although he had lost sight of the sail, Mr. Norman notified Capt. Benson, and, having observed the bearing of the object, the course of the President Harrison was immediately altered in a general direction toward it.

"At 3:50 p. m. the sail was again sighted. This time it was about 11 miles off and at times partly hidden by heavy seas. As the President Harrison steamed toward it, it was found to be a lifeboat loaded with people.

"Capt. Benson skillfully maneuvered the President Harrison to place the lifeboat on the lee side. Considerable difficulty was experienced in transferring the boat crew of thirteen men.

"The seamen proved to be part of the crew of the German steamer Quimistan. Second Officer Jorgensen, who was in charge, informed Capt. Benson that another boat, with Capt. Pietsch in command, was afloat somewhere.

"This boat also was put to lee, and its occupants transferred to the President Harrison. The two lifeboats were then scuttled so as not to become a menace to navigation.

Capt. Pietsch said he had abandoned the Quimistan about 700 miles east of New York after a struggle of fifteen hours to keep her afloat.

"The vessel was 57 years old, he said, and the rusty old plates buckled under the force of the sea. It was bound from Norfolk to Genoa to be scrapped as junk, Capt. Pietsch said. The abandonment was in 34:40 north latitude and 59:57 west longitude. The rescue was effected about 663 miles east of New York in latitude 40:56 north, longitude 59:25 west.

"The shipwrecked men spent three days and three nights under miserable conditions in squalls and heavy seas, battling to keep the boats afloat. The Quimistan, since leaving Norfolk, had sighted only one vessel and that was out of steamer lanes.

"After manning the boats, Capt. Pietsch set a course in the general direction of the nearest land, Sable Island, 300 miles away.

"The Quimistan did not carry radio, and for that reason no S O S was received from her."

Today's True Detective Story

The Knife With the Bloody Handle

By VANCE WYNN

MANY years ago—it was before the American Revolution—a merchant of Amsterdam started out on a business tour to Haarlem. Half way between the two places he was murdered and robbed. A wayfarer passing along the road saw the body and notified the police.

A hurried investigation proved that he had been stabbed to death with a knife. The culprit or culprits had relieved him of all his valuables, consisting of money and jewelry. The detectives made a search of the woods and within 20 yards of where the crime had been committed they found a man in a drunken stupor. That in itself would have been uninteresting if it had not been for the discovery which came simultaneously with the finding of the man.

It was that his hands were smeared with blood and that a blood-stained knife lay on the ground at his feet.

He was aroused and accused of the murder. At first he acted stupidly and afterward he was filled with fear. He declared that he was innocent of the murder and had never even met the Amsterdam merchant. He said his name was John Pastel; that he came from Westphalia and was a clown in a traveling circus. He remembered stopping at a nearby inn, where he engaged in a drinking bout with a party of friends. He drank so freely that he lost consciousness, and he remembered nothing until he was awakened by the police who were accusing him of murder.

The police searched him and in his pockets they found a number of small articles that had been stolen from the merchant. He was duly tried, convicted of the murder and beheaded, in accord with the custom prevailing in that country at that time.

It was after all of this had happened that some of his friends awoke to the desirability of clearing his memory. They had been with him on the night before the crime and they united in declaring that he was so drunk that he was scarcely able to stand on his feet. Now, there happened to live in Amsterdam at that time a magistrate named Johann Pole, who was the Sherlock Holmes of his day and generation. He became so interested in the case of the poor clown that he undertook to make an investigation.

At that time a gang of robbers was terrorizing the people of the countryside in the vicinity of Haarlem. By a ruse they were captured and sent to prison. Johann Pole had himself committed to prison as a vagrant and managed to get into a cell with two of the robbers. It was not long before they began to exchange confidences. Pole told them what a terrible criminal he was in the hope of inducing them to boast of their crimes.

This ruse was utilized by the late Inspector Byrnes when he was at the head of the New York police force. But it will be noticed that the Amsterdam detective was an expert in the same sort of thing as far back as 1754.

Within 24 hours one of the robbers admitted that he had murdered the Amsterdam merchant, and that the two of them had managed to shift the guilt upon the drunken clown.

On the strength of this the two fellows were taken into court and compelled to tell their story under oath. They admitted seeing the clown under the tree and told how they had stained his hands with blood and placed the knife at his feet. Also they placed some trifling articles in his pocket to convey the impression that he had robbed the merchant.

As a consequence of this the two real culprits were executed in due course of time. Thus it came about that three men, one innocent, died for the same murder. The memory of poor John Pastel was cleared, but unfortunately there was no way of restoring his life that had been taken through a miscarriage of justice.

Uncle Ray's Corner

A Little Saturday Talk.

HERE is a letter from a boy who reads the Corner:

"Dear Uncle Ray: I received the riddles and liked them very much. I like to hunt and fish. When I get bigger, I hope to go to Africa to hunt elephants. Sincerely,

"GEORGE HARDING, Jr."

I do not wonder that George wants to go to Africa. That continent has long been spoken of as an interesting place to visit; it still contains many wild animlas and at least a few "wild people."

African elephants are larger and harder to tame than the elephants of India. Hunting them is a rather dangerous sport, for they commonly travel in herds, and if you succeed in killing one of them you may be trampled to death by others.

Another letter runs like this:

"Dear Uncle Ray: Have you ever thought how large the organization of Girl Scouts is? I belong to the most wonderful troop in the city, in my estimation. We play all sorts of games and sing all Girl Scout songs. During the summer we have many hikes and rallies. Our troop bought a large dodge ball for $5. On all rallies and outings we take it with us to play ball. I think it is very nice to become a Girl Scout. Our troop is cheerful, and that is why I would enjoy 'Forty Good Riddles' to tell to the others. Respectfully yours, LILLIAN A. BINDER."

A copy of "Forty Good Riddles with Answers" was sent to Lillian, and I hope that her fellow scouts enjoyed them.

What are you doing these days for exercise? Maybe you may have felt so hot that to lie in the shade seemed enough exercise? However, I hope you have found a place to swim—in a river or lake, if not at the ocean beach. Swimming is a great sport—provided, of course, that you take proper care to avoid the danger of drowning. So far as I have ever heard, drowning is no fun.

Uncle Ray

$47,500 Is Asked In Auto Collision

Three Separate Suits Are Filed Against Taxi Company.

Damages aggregating $47,500 are sought in three separate suits filed yesterday in District Supreme Court against the Black & White Taxi Co. All the suits are the result of an alleged collision between one of the defendant's taxicabs and an automobile, which is said to have occurred August 30 last at New Jersey avenue and H street northwest.

The woman was a passenger in the automobile which figured in the accident.

Mrs. Julia K. Embrey, of 636 I street northeast, another passenger in the automobile, asks damages of $10,000. She states that she was thrown against the door of the automobile and sustained serious injuries. Her husband is suing for $2,500 damages for loss of his wife's services and expenses incurred by him as a result of her injuries.

EDGERTON TO QUIT U. S. POWER BOARD

COL. TYLER SUCCESSOR

Maj. Glen E. Edgerton, of the Engineer Corps of the Army, who for the last five years has been chief engineer of the Federal Power Commission, will end his services with the commission today to take over his new duties at the United States Military Academy, at West Point.

Lieut. Col. M. C. Tyler, who is now on leave of absence following a tour of duty in the Philippine Islands, will succeed Maj. Edgerton as chief engineer of the commission.

"His departure marks the close of five years of conspicuous service with the commission as its chief engineer," it was announced in a statement by the commission yesterday. "During that period many important cases involving the development of hydro-electric power throughout the country have come before the commission for determination as to whether issuance of Federal authority would be in the public interest.

"In most such cases the engineering problems that have arisen have been of far-reaching importance and have been settled under the direction of Maj. Edgerton. During his tenure of office, beginning June 26, 1924, the commission has received 490 applications for permits or licenses, involving the installation of approximately 18,000,000 horsepower. The activities of the engineering section of the commission have been marked during his administration by the dispatch with which cases have been handled and the work kept current with the demands made upon the office.

"One case of particular interest was that relating to the development of power on the Potomac River, a study of which has been initiated and on which report probably will be made to Congress early in its next regular session. Other outstanding projects include the Conowingo development on the Susquehanna River, the Skagit River development for the City of Seattle, the Mokelumne River development in California, the Waterville project on the Big Pigeon River in North Carolina, the Saluda project near Columbia, S. C., and the new hydroelectric station on the Ohio at Louisville, Ky.

"Prior to Maj. Edgerton's assignment to the Federal Power Commission he saw important service with the Panama Canal during its period of construction, as chief engineer of the Alaska Road Commission, and with troops on the Mexican border. After the World War, Maj. Edgerton served as director of sales, War Department, in charge of the disposal of the enormous stocks of surplus war materials."

$50,000 Suit Follows Alleged Auto Mishap

Andrew F. Melvin, by his father, Hartwell W. Melvin, filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court against George H. Lamar, with offices in the Woodward Building, seeking to recover $50,000 for alleged personal injuries suffered when he is said to have been struck by an automobile on Wisconsin avenue in Montgomery County, Md.

The accident occurred December 5, 1925, according to the petition. The plaintiff was said to be 10 years old at the time and allegation is made that as a result of his injuries he suffers loss of memory at times and his eyesight has been permanently impaired. The plaintiff alleges that the automobile operated by Lamar was being driven at an excessive speed and in a careless and negligent manner. The plaintiff is represented by Attorneys James A. O'Shea and Anna L. Cooke.

QUIZ ON GALLINGER IS ALMOST COMPLETE

son, 84-year-old chairman of the board and prime mover in bringing the investigation into being, asked to be relieved from active participation since he had advanced the survey to the point of apparent definite action.

No Public Hearings.

There will be no public hearings, and Judge Kathryn Sellers, of Juvenile Court, will not be asked to testify, Millan declared, confirming statements made previously in The Post.

The possibility that any officials or employes of Gallinger might be subjected to a quizzing was discounted last night by Millan, who declared that he would be "disappointed if the investigation is not entirely completed and our report ready to submit to the Board of District Commissioners by the end of this month."

Conditions as disclosed thus far during the committee's visits to the hospital, are "satisfactory," Millan declared. He declined to say whether any bases for criticism have been uncovered, asserting that such information should be withheld for the ears of the Board of Public Welfare and the District Commissioners before the public is allowed to know the condition of its municipal hospital.

Finds Conditions Satisfactory.

Whether any statements or explanations will be demanded will depend largely upon what the committee discovers during its third visit to Gallinger Monday, Millan said.

"We have not decided yet whether to question anyone," he said. "If it seems later to be in the best interests of our investigation we may ask for whatever statements seem advisable, but our study of Gallinger to date indicates that physically it is in quite satisfactory condition."

The physical condition of buildings and properties at Gallinger have figured only negligibly in complaints made against the institution; improper treatment of patients by executives and employes of the hospital is the principal condition which it was presumed the investigation would be intended to remedy, and which was the basis of complaint in a vast number of criticisms received during recent weeks by the Board of Public Welfare.

Nothing on Program Today.

Nothing is to be done in the investigation today, the next step being set for 1 o'clock Monday afternoon, when the committee plans to make its third and last visit to Gallinger.

Those who constituted the visiting party yesterday included Millan, Dr. George M. Kober, chairman of the committee; Mrs. Hugh S. Cumming, wife of the surgeon general of the Army; Dr. H. J. Crosson and Paul Kirby, assistant director of public welfare and official secretary of the committee, these five constituting the active members of the committee on medical surveys conducting the investigation. Accompanying them yesterday were George S. Wilson, director of public welfare, and Mrs. Charles Goldsmith, a member of the board. Dr. Bocock accompanied the group on its tour of the buildings.

Precepts of M'Namee on Radio Told

Announcer Says He Never Feigns Excitement in Relating Sports Events. Feels Stirring Incidents. Rabid Fans Are Few.

The great majority of radio listeners miles away from the scene of the major sporting events look to their radios to convey them there, to bring them the color, the feel of the crowd, the intensity of the atmosphere, the gayety, the drama of it all. They don't want a minutely detailed description of the contest, be it prize fight, football or baseball game. They want only the important happenings. The details they will read in their newspapers.

These are the precepts of Graham McNamee, the most famous of all radio "mike-men," who won his greatest fame by his radio reporting of sporting contests, political conventions and great public gatherings. McNamee is the veteran announcer of the National Broadcasting Co. staff.

"When I take my seat at the ringside at a prize fight I think to myself that every person who is going to listen wishes he could be there with me in the flesh. Then, obviously, my first duty to the listeners is to do the next best thing—take the thing to him, take it in all its color, its gayety, its intensity. I must make the listeners feel that they are actually looking, seeing and hearing everything at first hand and not through my descriptions," McNamee said.

"The radio announcer's first duty to the listeners is a combined one. He must inform and entertain in equal quantities. I must say when one of the fighters gets a black eye, but I must also tell the listeners about the people in the fourth row shouting hysterically for a knock-out, or the fans in the gallery staging a fight all of their own. I must report all important details of the actual contest. But the trivial, nonessential details I must eliminate."

McNamee believes that the rabid fan is the minority among the listeners to a sporting broadcast.

"These enthusiastic followers of the sport who know all the players by their first names and know every rule of the game backward actually rave and tear their hair when the announcer fails to report some detail that doesn't matter in the least. For example, a heavy hitter is at bat. Two balls are called. I announce it. Then a strike. I announce it. Then out in the center field the fans start throwing pop bottles at the outfielder. I tell about that. Then comes the announcement, "three strikes and he's out." Immediately the rabid fans are as mad as wet hens because no mention was made of the second strike," McNamee declared.

"The rule holds for football, baseball or prize fights. The rapid fans are in the minority. The great majority of the listeners wish to be transported to the scene. The unimportant details must be sacrificed for the human touch."

McNamee was indignant when it was suggested that the excitement occasionally betrayed by his voice was feigned.

"Feigned nothing," exclaimed McNamee. "I seldom report a football or baseball game, but that I don't get as wildly excited as the wildest fan. There is nothing feigned about it, although excitement in the voice naturally arouses excitement in the people around the loud speakers and therefore makes the report more realistic."

Perhaps thousands of McNamee's admirers do not know it, but he is in almost as great demand as a singer as he is as an announcer. Before McNamee went to radio and worked his way up to the position of the world's premiere "mike-man," he was a concert singer.

During the past season McNamee has appeared in recitals and concerts 120 times. Most of the engagements were in the New England States, the States of Washington, California, Texas and Florida. Next season his advance bookings have almost reached that figure.

McNamee believes that radio is just beginning to realize its immense possibilities. He foresees the day when there will not only be a radio in every home, but loud speakers will be distributed along the public thoroughfares to enable people to know what is going on even while on the streets. As to announcing. It is now a profession that is attracting hundreds of youths who wish to make it a life work. The day will come when the best of these youngsters will find their places before microphones and in the lives of radio listeners.

"Some day the profession of radio announcer will be as firmly established as dentistry. Then there will be women announcers as well as men. There is no particular reason why women can not be announcers. The main reason thus far has been because radio up to a year or two ago was a new venture and the people associated with it were pioneers. The males, after all, are the pioneers. Now that radio is established and growing there will be women announcers, many of them."

McNamee began his musical education at 7 with the piano. He was a boy soprano in St. Paul, Minn. He began serious vocal study at 17. As a youth he appeared in churches and concert halls in St. Paul and Minneapolis. He went to New York in 1912 for further study and concert work. Before his formal debut he sang in many of the larger New York churches and was featured in a series of concerts in the East.

What Today Means to You

August 24

"VIRGO."

IF August 24 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m. and from 5:30 p. m. to 7:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 5:30 a. m. to 7 a. m. and from 3:30 p. m. to 4 p. m.

Forcible influences are predicted to continue on this date, but their effect will be more of a moral and mental nature. Lucid experiences cause you to change many of your views on life. Lovers will be tempted to quarrel.

Children born on this August 24 will have gentle and timid dispositions, and they will have to acquire both self-confidence and independence. They will be very sensitive and will require little, if any, disciplining. As students, they will rank high.

You are a natural "go-getter," and possess many of the attributes which are essential to a self-made man or woman. When opportunities are coming your way, you meet them. When they are out of sight, you seek them. Fearlessly, and at times ruthlessly and blindly, you pursue a desire until it is your own.

If a man, you like to be looked up to and regarded as "the head," both in your home, business or career. You are more or less exacting in the service you expect from others, and are severe in your discipline. You aim to be just, but are neither lenient nor sympathetic in your dealings. "Business is business" with you, be it with friend or foe. You will not be very successful in your relations with women, which is probably due to your total misunderstanding of the sex. Your greatest happiness and your greatest interest lies in your work and the overcoming of obstacles. You are not a typical "home" man, although you will, as a father or husband, stolidly do your duty. Private lives, in reality, are more important than public reputations.

If a woman, you, too, are better fitted for a career than motherhood or a homemaker. The maternal instinct in you is not very strong.

Successful people born August 24:
James W. Wallack, actor.
Henry Stevens, bibliographer.
William W. Phelps, statesman and jurist.
Charles F. McKim, architect.
Max Beerbohm, author and actor.
Charles H. Sabin, banker.

Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

Belts, boutonnieres, hat-bands, whiches and whatses . . . all Dah-ray designs.

AH, the "little details," as the Parisienne calls them! The litite Parisienne calls them! The little which are studied and so well known to the elegantes of the world. Accessories, they are generally called, for lack of a better word.

Accessories too chic, yes. The subtle touch, the little note, the "soupcon" to the costume. Remember the blue-eyed lady who wore a single blue stone ring—and have you ever forgotten her eyes and that ring? Remember the dark-haired girl with the blue eyes, who was clever enough to put a red belt on her soft blue dress, accentuating in one gesture her red lips and blue eyes?

Accessories too chic, yes. The be successful in choosing a gown and a coat, and even a hat and shoes—but ah, the little things that follow! Whether or not you can risk a necklace, and what kind of necklace. How far you can go in boutonnieres, fn belts, in scarfs. That is what you study—with the aid of no books, just calling upon your very own good taste—calling upon it sufficiently to develop it if it isn't very strong in the first place.

• • • •

Some clever belts that you can make yourself—a scarf or two, some cunning and chic boutonnieres, accessories of chic—that's what we tell you how to make in next week's leaflet! Get that stamped, self-addressed envelope ready—these make darling gifts, you know, as well as make all the difference between a $10 frock and a $350 "model."

• • • •

At the gala at the Ambassadeuse one was reminded of Kentucky bluegrass by a lovely tulle frock, which had a fitted hipline, with a deep yoke cut on a circular line, below which fell two flounces dipping greatly in the back. On one shoulder was a large bunch of artificial orchids in pastel shades, and the shoulder-straps were of braid and diamante.

• • • •

Then at one of the Fetes d'Elegance a mannequin from Worth wore a white crepe ensemble with three-quarter coat and scarf-collar, and a simple white frock with a full skirt and even hemline. The skirt length was half-way between knee and ankle. With this was worn a black horsehair hat with velvet crown, long black gloves and black pumps. Oh!

• • • •

You'll Want to Make 'Em!

Bed scarfs and jacquettes and three lovely negligees—those are what this week's illustrated leaflet tells you how to make. If you hurry with that envelope!

• • • •

Paris' Flower Garden.

A tendency for flowers worn in the mouth of fox furs has been noticed in Paris.

Jenny places a bouquet of bright field flowers on the large low-placed pocket of a two-piece dress.

Gardenias are a favorite flower to wear with a strictly tailored suit, especially a black costume.

By all means look for the weekly Dare fashion letter in The Sunday Post. You will appreciate it.

WORK ON BRIDGE

Bridge Brevities, a pamphlet, by Milton C. Work, the world's preeminent authority on Auction and Contract bridge, free.

This valuable pamphlet, containing concise suggestions for players of both games, will be sent with the compliments of this paper to readers of Mr. Work's articles who request it.

Requests must be addressed to Milton C. Work, care of this paper, and must include a stamped (2c stamp) self-addressed return envelope.

SUIT REBIDS.

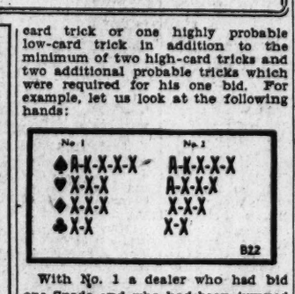
A SUIT-BIDDER who has been jumped by his partner should pass as a general thing when his original bid was a minimum, but should rebid when his hand is materially stronger than his original bid guaranteed. A one-bidder who has been jumped to two should bid three if his hand contains either one high-card trick or one highly probable low-card trick in addition to the minimum of two high-card tricks and two additional probable tricks which were required for his one bid. For example, let us look at the following hands:



With No. 1 a dealer who had bid one Spade and who had been jumped to two Spades by his partner should pass, but with No. 2, having an Ace of Hearts in addition to his minimum, he should bid three Spades.

When a major one-bidder has been jumped to three by his partner he should go to four whenever his hand has any element of strength in addition to the amount originally shown. To illustrate:

With No. 3, anxious as the original bidder would be to make a game call after a double jump by his partner, he would have no excuse for doing so and would have little chance of making game unless his partner, with the strength for a treble jump, had made only a double one. But with No. 4 there are two elements of strength that the hand has not originally shown; one is the Jack of Hearts and the other the two doubletons. While neither is an important asset, the combination would be amply sufficient to justify a bid of four. Almost anything better than a minimum one-bid warrants going to four after partner's double jump.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

WHEN BODIES WEAR OUT.

ASSUMING the same external conditions it is difficult to find much evidence that the average physical condition in this country today is much more hardy or more enduring than it was 50, 100, or 150 years ago. Notwithstanding our longer-life-lower-death-rates and improved health rates, the human body will last only just so long and will stand only just so much.

These conclusions are found in a comparative study of health conditions in New Haven at this time and in East Haven in 1790, made by Russell and Lucia. For the purposes of the study they put to one side death rates—the standard usually employed—and considered life tables. Life tables divide the population into age groups and they consider life expectancies, death rates and such separately for each age group. This is the basis on which insurance companies base their premium rate.

In 1790 nearly one-half of the population of East Haven was under 16 years of age. The New Haven population of today is much older than that, but not old enough on the average to bring them to the periods of high death rates. In New Haven the expectation of life of children under 15 is now much better than it was in East Haven in 1790. But at ages over 20 it is not so good. New Haven makes its poorest showing in comparison with the age 40 group. In each group the death rate was lowest at age 12.

The authors got some light on their study of New Haven from a report of the comparative health of the Romans in Rome in the heyday of that city and of the same racial groups in Roman provinces in Mediterranean Africa in the same period. The Romans living as farmers in northern Africa were healthier than their cousins living the hectic life of the Romans at home.

The conclusion to be drawn from this study is that while our improvements in the care of foods and water, in the disposal of sewage, in sanitation and prevention and in the care of the sick, are making good, we are falling down in such efforts as we may be making to build up bodily vigor.

This may be because we are disregarding genetics or it may be because one's habits are bad. We are not getting enough exercise and such, or it may be because of both factors combined.

MAY BOOSTERS BE LOYAL.

H. W. E. writes: I have found a way to prevent and cure leg cramps at night. I place my pillow so that when I get in bed my feet touch the uprights at the foot of the bed. I place quilts under the mattress so that my feet are a little lower than my body. If cramps threaten I subconsciously push my feet against the uprights at the foot. This stops the cramping.

I don't think much of your keep warm cure. I spent one winter in southern Florida and one in Mexico and had cramps in both places. I have many boosters for my method.

REPLY.

IN NO SPECIAL DANGER.

Mrs. M. S. writes: I am a young woman of 20 and would like to know if insanity is inheritable. My father and mother are in perfect health and so are their parents, but my father has two sisters who are insane. Could this be inherited by myself or my children in later years? His other brothers and sisters are in perfect health.

REPLY.

Insanity is inheritable within limitations. Mental instability, out of which insanity may develop, is much more likely to be inherited. Certain kinds of insanity are more inheritable than others. I do not think your children should be in any special danger.

HERNIA AND MARRIAGE.

E. A. J. writes: 1. Is it advisable for a girl of 23 who was operated on a year ago for indirect hernia, as the doctor termed it, to marry a man whose father had undergone an operation for hernia also? 2. Would this weakness in any way have any effect on the children?

REPLY.

1. Yes. 2. No.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL.

Having been favored with a friendly visit from Al Evans yesterday, I am happy to report that the new master of ceremonies at the Palace approaches his task with a well-defined and thoroughly sane comprehension of what the job is all about.

As has been frequently pointed out in this pulsating palladium, there is a sharp distinction—usually lost sight of by the layman—between the function of a master of ceremonies and those of an entertainer or an act. A fine entertainer may be a complete bust, as we say at the guild, as a master of ceremonies—or vice versa.

Mr. Evans and I are in consonance on this point as well as many others that came up in the course of a considerable conversation, and as no behest of his, I am taking the liberty of suggesting that you will find him a glib and interesting young man, thoroughly schooled in music, whom I have no doubt you will greatly like.

It is a pleasure to note in Mr. Meakin's typings from the Fox that "Wee Willie" Robyn is back with his handsome tenor voice for the week beginning today.

A postcard from the American Mercury, 730 Fifth avenue, New York, brings word that "Episode in an Artist's Life," by Leonard Hall, Esq., will be published in that provocative magazine for September, out August 25, which I take to be a misprint, since the 25th is Sunday.

Mr. Hall, you will remember, is a former newspaper man gone magazine but soon to recover.

As long as you are reading our mail, you might as well include the telegram from Mark A. Luescher, as follows: "Answering recent inquiry RKO plan reopen Keith's with 'Rio Rita' early October regards."

"Rio Rita" is the talking-singing-dancing picture that introduces Bebe Daniels as a star of the audible screen. John Boles appears in the chief male role.

When the Rialto reopens next Friday night with a detonation that will be heard for miles, I trust the elaborate preliminary ceremonies will not prove to be a talkie short, as was the case when "Show Boat" premiered.

"Broadway," the opening feature, is the picturized stage success that is said to present much of its action in a night club that has been executed on a scale slightly more imposing than the Grand Central Station in New York. Glenn Tryon, Evelyn Brent, Myrna Kennedy, Robert Ellis, Otis Harlan, Leslie Fenton, Paul Porcasi and Arthur Housman are a few of the extraordinary cast.

Eddie Sherwood, former vaudevillian, song writer, entertainer, raconteur and ex-film executive of Washington, but now the proprietor of "Sherry's," Baltimore's smartest supper club, will reopen his swagger feodery for the season on the evening of Thursday, September 12. A large delegation of Washingtonians, including your hungry correspondent, plan to lend the occasion the glamour of their presence!

"Bugs" Baer, famous wise-cracking columnist and former Washington sports cartoonist, last week gave his impression of Hollywood in a few typically pithy words. "Hollywood," said Arthur, "is a very funny place. I went out to rent a swell Spanish hacienda I had been looking at, and it turned out to be a gas station."

Option on the contract of June Collyer has not been renewed by Fox, and she will leave that organization this month. Then, if ever, come perfect daze!"

And that reminds me, Charlie Raymond, managing director of the Loew houses in Baltimore, although he drives a Packard on which the paint is still shiny, always comes to Washington by rail.

Since most of his commuting is done on the Sabbath, he finds the disposition of the bus after he gets here an exceedingly acute problem. "I tried it once," he told me, "and never knew until then what Shakespeare meant when he wrote, 'Parting is such sweet sorrow!'"

Well, I'll be seeing you.

STOCKS SOAR ANEW IN FEVERISH BUYING

New High Mark in Brokers' Loans Fails to Check Bullish Wave.

CALL FUNDS 7 PER CENT

New York, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—A boiling "bull" market centering in steel, oil, chemical and communications shares greeted the overnight announcement of a new high record in brokers' loans today.

Traders who sold short expecting that the new high loan total would unsettle the market, and those who placed buying orders expecting to get stocks at bargain prices, were alike amazed at the levels at which their orders had to be executed.

The Federal Reserve condition statement showing that both the New York Reserve institution and the member banks had been able to strengthen their positions during the past week without reducing the supply of funds available to the market was generally regarded by traders as more important than the rise in loans.

The indication that the ample supply of call money this week had come from corporations and investment trusts, sources which may be regarded as rather temporary, however, caused bankers to predict more stringent credit conditions in the near future unless the Federal Reserve lends much stronger support to the bull market than it has shown signs of doing so far.

Call Money Holds at 7 Per Cent.

Call money held at 7 per cent today and time money was unchanged at 8¾ to 9 per cent. The day's business news generally continued favorable. The weekly reviews again stressed the unexpectedly high rate of operations in industry. Retail trade was said to have slackened further, but this was to have been expected at this season. New Haven and Southern Pacific reported highly favorable earnings for July. Disappleasing development was a further cut in cement prices by a large producer, with indications that it would be followed by others. This caused further selling of cement stocks.

The swift upturn in leading stocks was prompted by new assortments of unconfirmable merger rumors affecting particularly the oils and chemicals. It is expected that the merger movement in the oil industry will play an important part in the eventual control of production. Weekend profit taking did not fail to make its appearance in the last hour, but recessions from the day's best levels were largely moderate.

Steel Passes 260 Mark.

United States Steel was hustled up more than 10 points, to above 260, making a total gain of more than 100 points in a few months, and Bethlehem was sent up more than 6 points to a new peak, an unusually wide movement for this issue. Republic Iron & Steel and Youngstown Sheet & Tube also reached new high ground in wide gains.

Westinghouse Electric was again a leader, shooting up about 15 points, to a new peak, and closing near the top. General Electric made a gain of about 5 points, then lost it. International Telephone rose about 8 points to a new high, and Western Union made a similar upturn. Radio was bid up more than 5 points, to 196, a new high level for the movement, in a large turnover.

Chemical shares made characteristically wide movements, Columbian Carbon jumping 20 points to a new peak. Du Pont mounted 16, and U. S. Industrial Alcohol more than 7.

Other high fliers were Ingersoll Rand and Air Reduction, mounting 12 and 15 points. Eastman Kodak, Norfolk & Western, Woolworth, U. S. Freight, Pacific Gas & Electric, Southern California Edison, Chicago & Northwestern and Hershey Chocolate were among other issues reaching new high ground.

Oils Are Heavily Bought.

Oils were bought in enormous volume, one block of 50,000 shares of Standard of New York changing hands at 45. The stock later rose to 42, a new high. Texas Corporation and Standard of New Jersey reached new high levels with gains of 2 or 3 points. General Motors was also heavily traded, selling up more than 2 points, but then reacting.

Several of the rails yielded to profit-taking, Chesapeake & Ohio losing 4 points. A few rather volatile issues tumbled sharply. Philadelphia Co. selling off 25 points, then reducing its loss to 16, and Case Threshing dropping 15 points, then rallying 11. American Machine & Foundry again turned heavy losing more than 10 points.

In the commodity markets, grains were firm, wheat mounting 2½ to 3 cents a bushel on better export demand and improved prices at Winnipeg, and corn selling a little higher on further bullish weather reports. Cotton futures were irregular and closed virtually unchanged, reflecting uncertainty over the weather outlook.

BANKS' STOCKS ACTIVE

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

A decrease in net operating income of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. for July of $21,152, compared with the month of June, was shown yesterday in the company's report of operations filed with the Public Utilities Commission.

Telephone operating revenues for the month were $663,866. Operating expenses were $538,040, making net operating income $125,826. Operating revenues for the seven months ending July 31 were $4,860,763. Operating expenses for this period were $3,880,967, making net operating income $1,279,795.

Taxes assignable to operations in July were $45,089, which was an increase of $2,281 over the previous month. For the first seven months of this year taxes assignable to operations amounted to $332,215.

Capital expenditures for outside plant facilities and central office equipment added to the telephone company's system in Washington during the first seven months of the year amounted to $2,573,194. Retirements were $788,676, making net additions $1,784,518. Net additions to plant for the twelve months ending July 31 were $2,596,326.

On July 31, Washington was served by 153,522 telephones, which was an increase of 3,162 since the first of the year. During July Washington telephone users made 15,225,000 local and 480,000 out of town calls. This was an increase of 10.5 per cent in local and 18.3 per cent in toll calls over the same month in 1928.

Bank Stocks Are Active.

Six bank stocks figured in yesterday's trading on the Washington Stock Exchange, a record number for the past four months. Twenty shares of Commercial National Bank sold at 260; five of Washington Loan & Trust at 535; ten of Continental Trust at 135, and single shares of National Bank of Washington and Departmental Bank at 308 and 10 respectively. Five shares of District National moved at 225.

Among active stocks were Peoples Drug Stores preferred, 50 shares of which sold at 122½, point and a half recession; Columbia Sand & Gravel preferred, with 50 shares transferring at 88, last sale price; Mergenthaler Linotype, in which sales of 40 shares at 104¾, last sale price, were registered, and Capital Traction, 20 shares of which changed hands at 93¼, last quotation, and a quarter-point advance therefrom.

The bond market exhibited continued improvement, the aggregate of sales, $14,000, being a $3,500 advance from the preceding session. The stock turnover of 240 shares marked a falling off of 48 from Thursday's.

Decline in Check Turnover.

Commercial transactions during the week ended August 17, shown in the volume of checks presented to banks for payment, revealed a decline from the previous week but were considerably greater than in the corresponding period of 1928, the weekly statement of the Department of Commerce announced yesterday.

Prices for stocks reached a new high level during the week, while bond prices showed declines from both the preceding week and the same period of last year. Business failures were fewer in number than in either the previous week or the same period of 1928.

New Warehouses Planned.

Plans for construction, on land leased from the Pennsylvania Railroad, and as a component part of the railroad's freight terminal for the Port of New York at Jersey City, of warehouse buildings and a cold storage plant, were revealed last night in connection with the announcement that the National City Co. and Case, Satt & Co. would sponsor today the public financing for the project.

The warehouses will be operated primarily for the dry and cold storage of freight from, or for delivery to, the lines of the Pennsylvania at this terminal, and, in order to take full advantage of the development, the railroad company is constructing two piers and making extensive rearrangements of its freight yard facilities.

The project will be undertaken by the Pennsylvania Dock & Warehousing Co., whose formation has been approved by The railroad after a comprehensive study by its engineering and traffic departments of the plans and specifications of the proposed improvement. It is a fixed policy of the Pennsylvania not to operate warehouses directly, but to encourage their construction at strategic points along its lines.

New Stock Authorized.

An offering of additional common stock has been authorized by the board of directors of National Dairy Products Corporation, of which Chestnut Farms Dairy, Inc., is a unit, to be made to common stockholders of record at the close of business at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of September 3, at the rate of one share for each ten shares of common stock outstanding. The offering price is to be $55 a share and the subscriptions are to be payable at any time on or before the close of business on September 23, 1929. Arrangements have been made for the underwriting of the issue by Messrs. Goldman, Sachs & Co., Lehman Bros. and Prince & Whitely.

The stock to be issued pursuant to this offering will not entitled the holders thereof to receive the cash and stock dividends payable on October 1, 1929, to common stockholders of the company of record on Seeptember 3, 1929.

French-U.S.Cinema Agreement Is Seen

Truce Until October, Next Year, Regarded Likely by Observers.

Paris, Aug. 23 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The long standing conflict between the French and American film industries is in a fair way of being settled, according to present indications.

Representatives on the French side have gone so far as to announce that the agreement would be signed today. They were inaccurate or premature, for the New York World News Service correspondent discovers that no actual settlement has been reached yet, although the French have given way in the dispute over the quota system and are ready to agree to a sort of a truce lasting until October of next year.

Meanwhile, the French would withdraw their claim for an increase in the rating of French films to be purchased in America against the American films taken by France. The film famine in France, resulting from the suspension of sales to France, is believed to have influenced French cinema magnates in their desire to put an end to the conflict.

The American film industry, however, insists on a written agreement in which the failure of the present contingent or quota system is recognized, in order to clear the way for a more definite arrangement after October, 1930.

Almost the Naked Truth

By JAMES S. COLLINS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Helen Wills will go into her final battle in defense of her championship at Forest Hills tomorrow afternoon a prohibitive favorite to defeat Mrs. Phoebe Watson, sole surviving challenger. Miss Wills has beaten Mrs. Watson before and will do it again tomorrow if she retains anything like the form she showed today in overwhelming Mrs. Molla Mallory.

The gallery shared Helen Jacob's disappointment today when she failed to go through to the finals against Helen Wills. In spite of numerous setbacks at the hands of the champion, Miss Jacobs has never abandoned hope of some day beating her and thought she might be able to turn the trick this year. An injury to her side spoiled whatever chance she might have had of lifting the crown.

McGraw Ready for House Cleaning.

Uneasy lies the heads that rest on Giant pillows these nights. Although Manager McGraw has given no inkling of his intentions, it is a certainty that the club will be thoroughly shaken up during the winter months. Palpably, the Giants have not played the brand of ball that McGraw demands of his players. Bill Terry and Mel Ott seem to be the only men reasonably sure of retention.

It is extremely unlikely that McGraw will part with Jackson, Lindstrom or one or two other stars, but he has made drastic moves before to pull his clubs out of the doldrums and he may be expected to make some more this winter. Spotty pitching and weakness around second seem to be the glaring flaws in the present Giant machine, but there seems to have been a general letdown in play. Dr. McGraw knows what to prescribe for a condition of that sort and it's usually pretty stiff medicine.

Spirited Bidding for Players Expected.

With both New York clubs in the market for reinforcements, there is bound to be some spirited bidding for players. Prices are unlikely, however, to attain past high levels. Under a new rule first-year men can be claimed out of the waiver mill for the regular waiver price of $7,500. Heretofore, if a club paid $100,000 for a player and then asked for waivers on him, a club claiming him would have to pay his original cost price. Under the new system a club owner will think a long time before he pays a small fortune for a player with a disposal value of only $7,500.

New Rule to Advantage Of Weaker Clubs.

The new rule should work to the great advantage of the weaker clubs, who can not compete with the stronger in the open market. No longer will it be easy for the more prosperous clubs to keep fine talent covered up in the minors while less fortunate clubs try to worry along with third-rate material.

One of the toughest jobs confronting Miller Huggins, for example, is deciding which of several promising players he will keep next spring. Under baseball law he can not farm them out again and must keep them or sell them to some other club. Those he must dispose of probably will fit in very nicely with other big league clubs.

Braves Defeat Cards, 5-2, and Even Series

Boston, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—The Braves evened the series with the St. Louis Cardinals at one-all here today by winning 5-2, behind the seven-hit pitching of Bobby Smith. Jess Haines, St. Louis pitcher, got a homer with none on in the fifth.

Bell's double scored two runs for Boston in the first and a combination of four hits, Maguire's squeeze play bunt and a wild throw by Catcher Jimmy Wilson in the sixth gave them three more. Goldsmith, former Boston pitcher, hurled the last two innings for the Cardinals and only six men faced him.

Cronin Drives Myer Home To Win

Three Double Plays Aid Nats' Veteran to Take Duel.

Special to The Washington Post.

DETROIT, Aug. 23.—Washington made only four hits off Earl Whitehill today, including a scratch infield single. However, two of the hits came together in the second inning, scoring a run, and since it was the only run scored during the game, Washington obviously beat Detroit by the closest score known to baseball, 1 to 0. The onrushing Nats thus narrowed the margin by which the Tigers held fifth place to two games.

The game was a brilliant pitching duel between the left-handed Whitehill and the melancholy right-hander, Samuel Jones. The Tigers outhit the Nationals, making a total of six safeties, but they were all wasted. For one thing Jones kept them scattered, and, for another thing, the Washington defense gave Jones some of the finest support seen here this year. No pitcher has had better backing, and the infield work was particularly effective. Cronin was the outstanding star. He had three putouts and six assists. Three times when Detroit had men on bases, the Washington infield came through with double plays that smothered the Tiger hopes.

Successive Hits by Myer, Cronin Decide Game.

Two infielders produced the lone run of the afternoon. When Myer came to bat, leading off in the second, Whitehill shifted his outfielders to the right, but Myer lined between Harry Rice and Fothergill in left center for a double, and Cronin, who followed him, lined a single to left, on which Myer scored.

From then on until the end of the game Washington got only two men as far as second, and both times an error was to blame. Schuble finished the game at short for Detroit, and in the eighth he threw into the dugout on Spencer's easy grounder. Spencer reached second on the error. Schuble followed this with a brilliant diving catch of Hayes' line drive toward left and doubled Spencer off second.

In the ninth the second error of the day threatened to cost runs. One was out when Judge lifted a fly to short left. Fothergill got under the ball and muffed it. Sam Rice filed, but Gosli's bounder was too high for Alexander, and the ball hopped into right for a scratch double. Judge took third on the hit, but Myer tapped an easy grounder to Whitehill for the third out.

$15,000 Marathon Swim Won by Martha Norelius

who gained $10,000 yesterday by winning the Wrigley swim at Toronto. It was her major debut as a professional. Miss Norelius starred in the last Olympic games at Amsterdam and is the holder of a number of world records.

Former Amateur Ace Wins 10-Mile Race by 300 Yards.

TORONTO, Ontario, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—In her first major professional competition, Martha Norelius, of New York, former amateur athletic star and holder of an Olympic title, won the Wrigley 10-mile swim for momen in Lake Ontario here today.

Taking the lead from the start, Miss Norelius outswam and outlasted a field of 45 women from the United States and Canada to capture first prize money of $10,000.

Three hundred yards behind the leader came Ruth Tower, of Denver, while in third place, a mile behind Miss Norelius, was Mrs. Evelyn Armstrong, of Detroit, mother of two young children. Fourth place went to 17-year-old Leah Riley, of Keansburg, N. J., and fifth place to Ethel Hertle, of New York, winner of the event last year. Second place carried a cash award of $3,000; third place, $1,000; fourth place, $600, and fifth, $400.

Last Year's Time Bettered by Nearly 10 Minutes.

Covering the 10 miles—five times around a 2-mile rectangular course—in 5 hours 24 minutes 22 seconds, Miss Norelius clipped nearly 10 minutes off Miss Hertle's winning time last year. Miss Hertle covered the distance in 1928 in 5:34:14 4-5.

As the New York girl clambered unaided up the ladder at the finish float she was given an ovation by the 100,000 persons lined solidly along the shore.

The times of the other leaders were: Miss Tower, 5:31:18; Mrs. Armstrong, 5:53:04; Miss Riley, 5:50:50 4-5; Miss Hertle, 6:01:54 1-3.

Miss Norelius Not Pressed After First Mile.

Although Miss Norelius had been rated as one of the favorites before the race started, some experts doubted her ability to last the distance Her fame as an amateur was gained at shorter distances, and in her brief professional career she has competed in no race of more than 4 miles. Only for the first mile was Miss Norelius seriously pressed.

As they passed the official stand 1 mile down the course, the two girls were almost in a tie, with Mrs. Armstrong, Miss Hertle and Miss Riley closely bunched a short distance to the rear.

Then Miss Norelius began to pull away. At the mile and a half mark

Nats Buy Two Rookies From Alabama Club

Infielder "Stuffy" Stewart, whom the Nationals have on option at Birmingham and who was injured some time ago, has been doing a little scouting for the Washington Club while recuperating from his hurts and two players yesterday were purchased on his recommendation.

One is H. L. Heidelbach, a right-handed pitcher, while the other is W. L. Land, an outfielder. "I don't know a thing about these younsters," said President Clark Griffith last night in making the announcement, "except that both have been starring with the Gadsden Club in some league in Alabama. Stewart says neither is of big league caliber yet, but that he believes both are comers and so I took a chance on them on his say so."

Held to Meet White In Canadian Golf Final

Jasper Park, Alberta, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Eddie Held, of New York, gained the final round of the Canadian amateur golf championship today, defeating Freddy Wood, of Vancouver, 2 and 1, in the semifinal round.

Held's opponent in the final round tomorrow will be Gardiner White, of New York. White upset D. Clarke Corkran, of Philadelphia, in the semifinal round, 2 and 1.

Both semifinal round battles were nip and tuck affairs with the winner always in doubt.

Wood gave Held a terrific battle He led by one up at the end of the first nine holes, but the match was all square at the end of the first eighteen holes, with the approximate medal cards 76 for Held and 77 for Wood. Held then took a one-hole lead at the end of 27 holes and played spectacular golf to be dormie two at the thirty-fourth. The seventeenth was halved, giving Held the match by 2 and 1.

Four up at the end of the first 18 White was forced to withstand a closing rally by Corkran to gain his place in the finals. Corkran won the ninsteenth and twenty-third holes to cut White's lead to two up and was distinct threat until the last hole had been played.

The all-American final will produce the first American holder of the Canadian amateur title since its inauguration in 1895.

Cubs Pay $10,000 For Rookie Pitcher

Alexandria, La., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—The Alexandria Town Talk today said that Lonnie (Country) Warneke, Alexandria pitcher in the Cotton States League, had been sold to the Chicago Cubs for "$10,000 or more." The paper also said that A. C. (Bad News) Hale, rookie home-run king of the circuit, was reported recommended for sale to the Cubs.

Warneke, 20-year-old right hander, resides near Hot Springs, Ark. He is playing his first year in professional baseball. Ten thousand dollars is the highest price ever paid in the Cotton States League. One offer for Hale is said to have reached that figure. Hale plays third base.

Crabbe Defeats Spence In A. A. U. Swimming

Fleischacker Pool, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Continuing his spectacular stroking today, Clarence "Buster" Crabbe, of Honolulu, flipped his way to an easy victory in the 440-yard free style of the men's senior national A. A. U. championship. The tall boy, representing the Outrigger Canoe Club of Honolulu, won as he pleased in the time of 5 minutes 4 seconds.

Walter Spence, of the Penna Athletic Club, Philadelphia, took second place, and Austin Clapp, of the Hollywood Athletic Club, was third. Crabbe and Clapp swam on even terms for the first lap, but after that the lad from Hawaii pulled away from his rival and continued to pile up a lead until the finish.

Armour Tops Western by 2 Strokes

Sarazen Second With 138; Horton Smith Third With 139.

Abe Espinosa Shoots 67; Final 36 Holes Listed Today.

By PAUL R. MICKELSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

OZAUKEE COUNTRY CLUB, Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—The 72-hole scramble for the Western open golf championship settled into a dog fight today with Tommy Armour, master iron wielder from Orchard Lake, Mich., leading the pack with 136 strokes at the half way barrier. Trailing him by 2 strokes was Gene Sarazen, the pudgy Italian shotmaker from Flushing, L. I., while Horton Smith, 21-year-old Joplin, Mo., sensation, threatened with a par breaking 139 total. Ten others had a bright chance, too, as they required but 142 shots for the 36-hole grind.

In contrast to yesterday's wholesale slaughter of par, the championship Ozaukee Country Club course took a heavy toll of strokes today. Only three were able to better perfect figures and they needed low scores to keep within a reasonable proximity of the leaders. They were Abe Espinosa, of Chicago, the defending titleholder, who got a bad 75 on his first round and came back with a 67, three under par, for a 142 total; Joe Kirkwood, the itinerant trick shot artist, who added a 69 to his 71 of yesterday for a 141 and Orville Schell, a youngster from Chicago, who matched Espinosa's round today for a similar 36-hole total.

Bad Breaks, Poor Putting Slow Armour.

Armour, who won the medal with a sizzling 65 yesterday, was forced to take a 71 today because of bad breaks and poor hitting; Sarazen bagged a par 70 only by a great homeward-bound spurt, while Smith slumped badly to take a 73 just when he had a golden opportunity to overtake the flying Scot. And so it was with most of the other championship threats who handed old man par a lacing yesterday and Wednesday in the qualifying round. As a result all entrants having a 36-hole total of 152 strokes, qualified for the 36-hole final which will decide the championship, barring a necessary championship play-off tomorrow.

Some of the best golfers of the Nation remained within reasonable striking distance of Armour at the halfway mark, only a few of them being longshots. These golfers and their scores were Willard Hutchison, Glencoe, Ill., 141; Jock Hutchison, Chicago, 141; Leonard Schmutte, Lima, Ohio, 142; Frank Walsh, Appleton, Wis., 142; Bob MacDonald, Chicago, 142; Henry Ciuci, Stratford, Conn., 142; "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, New York, 142; Al Espinosa, Chicago, the defending champion's brother, 144; F. G. Leonard, Milwaukee, 144; Harry Denny, Green Bay, Wis., 144; Harry Hampton, Chicago, 145; Bobby Cruickshank, New York, 145, and George Sargent, of Columbus, Ohio, national open champion way back in 1909, who carded a 145 total.

Espinosa's Comeback Is Feature.

The comeback of Abe Espinosa was the feature of today's play. Little Abe took 34 strokes, one less than par, on his outward journey, and then breezed home with a 33 while a great gallery cheered his fight. He snared five birdies on his triumphant round. Only twice did he go over par on a hole.

Schell went out in 36 and then whizzed home with a 31, four better than par. All told, he bagged five birdies.

Poor judgment of distance with his iron shots cost Smith his opportunity. He went out with perfect golf to take a one-stroke margin on Armour and then lost his advantage by taking a 38 coming home.

Lott and Doeg Beat Tilden, Hunter

Tilden Defeats Coen, Plays Lott Today in Singles Final.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—George M. Lott, jr., of Chicago, and Johnny Doeg, of Santa Monica, Calif., who were ranked above Big Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter in the United States lawn tennis 1928 doubles list, today administered a sound straight-set trouncing to the veterans in the semifinal round of the Newport Casino Invitation Team play, 6—4, 6—2, 6—4.

They led all through the match after the third game in the first set. Their points were scored, not by playing to Hunter's notorious weaknesses, his backhand and overhead strokings, but directly against the old master himself.

Hunter's failure to hold his service, he being broken three times, was a great help to Lott and Doeg, but when a point was needed for game, they were generally able to ace Tilden or force him to net.

The victory placed Lott and Doeg in the doubles finals for the second consecutive time, they having won last year's contest.

Mercur and Hall in Doubles Finals.

Fritz Mercur, of Harrisburg, Pa., and J. Gilbert Hall, of Orange, N. J., were the other team to enter the final bracket, defeating J. Brooks Fenno, jr., of Boston, and E. W. Feibleman, of New York, in an extra set match, 3—6, 6—2, 7—5, 6—2.

In the singles play, Tilden and Lott, the defending champion, advanced to the finals. The former had an easy semifinal session with his star pupil, W. F. Coen, jr., of Kansas City. Tilden's scores were 7—5, 6—3, 6—4.

Lott, however, had a hard court tussle with Johnny Van Ryn, whom he defeated in last year's final. The former Princeton star forced him to go through an extra set before he won the match, 6—4, 6—2, 1—6, 6—4.

3 Homers Help Cubs Defeat Phils, 6 to 1

Philadelphia, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Home runs by Hack Wilson, Rogers Hornsby and Jack Taylor gave the Cubs their second successive victory over the Phillies today, 6 to 1. Wilson's swipe in the sixth inning came with two on and broke a scoreless tie. It was Hack's thirty-third of the season and tied him with Chuck Klein and Babe Ruth for the big league leadership.

Hornsby's circuit slam came in the eighth with Heathcote on first. It was the Rajah's twenty-eighth of the season.

Pat Malone, the Cubs' fire-ball ace, pitched brilliantly in holding the league's leading hitting team to five blows, but he could not shut them out. Tommy Thevenow's sacrifice fly drove in the only Philly run in the seventh inning.

It was a great duel between Ray Benge and Malone until the home run hitting broke out in the sixth.

Spectacular fielding by both sides choked off all scoring threats in the first six innings.

Browns in Third Place By Blanking Yanks

St. Louis, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—The Browns scored their second successive shutout over the Yankees here today, turning back the champions by 5 to 0. George Blaeholder pitched three-hit ball until the ninth, when two infield singles gave the Hugmen an opening of which they failed to avail themselves. It was the first time this season that the Yanks have encountered eighteen successive scoreless innings.

Herb Pennock and his relief, Wilcy Moore, pitched better ball than the score indicates. Tony Lazzeri's wild throw in the fourth gave the Brownies four unearned runs, but the single earned marker, of course, was enough for the home team. The Browns regained third place.

Doubles Honors Are Assured England at Forest Hills.

By TED VOSBURGH
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Helen Wills completely outclassed her old rival, Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, before a gallery of 5,000 at the West Side Stadium this afternoon, calmly pounding out a victory in two love sets. Queen Helen thereby entered the final round of the national women's tennis championship where tomorrow she will defend her crown against Mrs. Phoebe Watson, English star.

The champion's hard-hitting and perfect aim made her match almost entirely devoid of thrills, but plenty of tennis drama was packed into the other semifinal in which the tall, slim, black-haired English woman overcame Helen Jacobs by scores of 6—1, 3—6, 6—4. America's second ranking feminine player fought gallantly against elimination but the unerring marksmanship of Mrs. Watson from the base line finally brought about her downfall as it had done so unexpectedly in the Wightman Cup series last week.

All-San Francisco Team Bows In Doubles.

The last remaining hope of an American victory in the doubles phase of the championship vanished when the all-San Francisco team of Mrs. Anna Harper and Edith Cross was eliminated at the hands of England's second best aggregation, consisting of Mrs. Phyllis Covell and Mrs. Dorothy Shepherd-Barron by scores of 1—6, 6—4, 6—2.

These seasoned veterans of years of international play won as much through use of their heads as their racquets. After losing the opening set, they tossed up a ceaseless barrage of well-aimed lobs that forced their opponents into errors and undermined their morale.

A drenching downpour put an end to the secnod doubles semifinal with the British championship pair of Mrs. Phoebe Watson and Mrs. Peggy Michell leading the Anglo-American team of Betty Nuthall and Helen Jacobs at 6 games to 5 in the opening set with Miss Nuthall ready to serve in the next game. The match is to be concluded tomorrow morning.

Miss Wills Gives Exhibition Of Perfect Tennis.

In shutting out Mrs. Mallory, eight times winner of this championship, without loss of a solitary game, Miss Wills gave an exhibition of perfect tennis that failed to find great favor with the gallery. Few had expected that Mrs. Mallory, conqueror yesterday of Betty Nuthall, would be steamrollered in such summary fashion and the gallant former champion came in for more than her share of applause.

Miss Wills never played more brilliantly, her shots were so deadly in their accuracy that it seemed she could hit a clover leaf at 30 paces. Her drives carried so much speed that Mrs. Mallory who had no great difficulty in retrieving Bounding Betty's fastest sho styeatergoy, could seldom get her racquet on the ball. In the first set she gained but five points and in the second but 15. The rallies were brief and most of them ended with an unanswerable placement drive from Helen's "bat."

Mrs. Watson held a distinct advantage over Miss Jacobs in the first and third sets of their match. Her eye for the corners was unerring and her drives carried a crispness that Helen's chop strokes could not match. The greater force and flatness of the English woman's strokes enabled her to hold the offensive most of the way while their aim prevented her adversary from taking the net where she is most effective.

Miss Jacobs Takes Advantage of Opponent's Errors.

Mrs. Watson lost some of her accuracy in the second and Miss Jacobs pounched upon the opportunity like a hawk, but the control returned in time to give the wiry English woman the deciding set.

In addition to the finals in singles and doubles tomorrow, a mixed doubles exhibition will be played, featuring the Davis Cup doubles stars, John Van Ryan and Wilmer Allison, as partners of Betty Nuthall and Helen Wills.

THE Industrial League champs, Washington Gas Light Co., almost threw a bombshell into local sandlot ranks by giving Naval Hospital, Departmental League standard bearers, and generally regarded as the favorites to cop the city series being waged on the Terminal grounds, the greatest scare they have received this season. After leading until the seventh, the Gasmen were knocked out of further play in the series by a 2-run rally by the Tars after the first two batters had been retired, which gave the Hospital lads the nod by the narrowest of margins, 4 to 3.

Nick Panella, slabster for the Gasmen, gave the Naval lads plenty of trouble until he lost his control momentarily in the unlucky seventh. Then, with the bases loaded, "Bing" Miller, slugging shortstop of the winners, drove one of Panella's fast ones way over the left field barrier for two bases, to sew up the game.

Lefty "Rebel" Crews, after a shaky start, due to some timely hitting by Haas and Gill, and several errors by his mates at critical moments which gave the Gasmen an early lead, settled down and in the latter innings had complete control of the situation.

Miller Stars in the Field As Well As At Bat.

The usually reliable "Doc" Hicks, former Western League star, had one of his few off days, making three errors in the early innings, but redeemed himself by his stellar play in the latter stages of the contest. Miller, besides driving out the decisive hit of the contest, contributed several snappy stops and throws to feature the winners' defensive play. Rumboldt, speedy center fielder of the winners, starred with three running catches. Farran, of the losers, proved a thorn in the side for Crews with three stinging safeties in four appearances at the platter.

The Gasmen started scoring proceedings in the first inning when F. Bauman and Haas singled in rapid succession. When Haas' hit went through King, Bauman scored, but Haas was nipped at the far corner by a quick relay. Gill followed with a single to center, and when Hicks and Piller erred on successive plays Gill scored with the second run of the inning. The Hospital lads got one run back in their half when King walked, advanced to second on a wild pitch and scored on sacrifice flies by Schuster and "Doc" Hicks.

The Tars tied the score in the second. Piller and Rumboldt singled and were advanced by Howk's slow roller to third. Piller was then propelled across the plate with the tying run when Crews drove a hot single off Panella's gloved hand.

Gas Takes Lead in 3d, But Lose Out in 7th.

The Gasmen again took the lead in the third, which they held until the fatal seventh. Haas walked as a starter, and when he beat the throw to second on Smithson's roller to Miller, all hands were safe. James then sent a long fly to right field, advancing Haas to third, but when the usually reliable Hicks took the outfield return and threw wildly in an attempt to catch Smithson off first, Haas scored.

The contest then settled down into a pitcher's battle with honors even until the seventh. After Howk and Crews had been retired in order by Panella, King singled to left. Schuster drove a hard single past Smithson, advancing King to the midway sack. Hicks walked, filling the bases, and "Bing" Miller followed with his drive over the left field fence for a timely double, giving his mates the margin of victory when King and Schuster scored.

On Monday, the Calvary Baptists, conquerers of the Washington Gaslight Nine, will give battle to the Pocolmb up on even terms with the tomac Yards Team in an effort to Pullman Nine, at the present time leading the pack for city week-day honors, at 4:15 p. m., on the Terminal Grounds, at the Union Station.

Starting Gates to Be Used At Marlboro Race Meeting

Special to The Washington Post.

MARLBORO, MD., Aug. 23.—The Southern Maryland Agricultural Fair Association, which will open a five-day fall race meeting here on September 9, has expended $50,000 for improvements, including stall starting gates, the first ever installed on a half-mile track in this or any other State in America.

A new grand stand, race secretary's office, jockey's room, ladies' rest room, pari-mutuel plant, a resurfaced racing strip and the stall gates, which are located in chutes on the outside of the track, go to make this Maryland's finest half-mile racing plant.

Assistant General Manager Joseph Knight. The racing strip has been resurfaced since last September. New fences have been erected around the track. The stationary stall starting gates, which are similar to those in use at Bowie, are located in chutes on the outside of the track, whereas those at Bowie are erected in the infield. By sending fields away from chutes on the outside the men behind the meeting here are confident they will be giving each and every race fan a 50-50 break.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

BY ALBERT S. COLLYER

THE Fort Dearborn. Out at Hawthorne, the closing classic of an exceptionally bountiful meeting is the Fort Dearborn handicap, at one and one-eighth miles with 10,000 added. Overnight, the field nominated embraces eleven campaigners. However, it is just possible this will be reduced to seven starters or even less. As a matter of fact and taking a line through recent performances, it would seem EASTER STOCKINGS, MARTIE FLYNN and KARL EITEL stand out. The balance presumably might as well remain in the stable. When MARTIE last met the Audley stable representative at Churchill Downs, he carried 113 to the mare's 111, winning in a hard drive. KARL EITEL'S last was a corker, carrying 122 to ROSE OF SHARON'S 117, a mighty tough weight allotment—all things considered. In view of the mare's spectacular races. Notwithstanding all this, the Coughlin representative was a bang-up second. With 10 pounds off today, he will be hard to beat.

The added attraction is the Ivanhoe, which brings out a corking good field of 2-year-olds. Personally I favor GALLANT KNIGHT, which is awfully good at present. The entry of THISTLE ANN and JUSTINE also figure, as does JIMMY MORAN, which has been freshened up.

Out at Saratoga, the big headline is the Grand Union, which brings out a splendid field. Of the lot, I am stringing along with WHICH ONE, the Whitney representative, and a real topnotcher. As a matter of fact, my figures make him only one point less than BOOJUM, the season sensation, and the fastest 2-year-old since Man o' War. HI JACK has shown speed, gameness and consistency, and I am showing him a slight preference over CARUSO, which received a special prep for this race. HIEOVER and POLYGAMOUS follow in the order named.

For the rich Merchants and Citizens Handicap, I am forced to take DIAVOLO, which, in my book, rates top horse of this entire division, 4 points better than IRONSIDES and 7 points better than BATEAU. You have the answer in your lily white duke. More anon.

Whichone Is Favorite In $10,000 Race Today

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 23 (A. P.).—A further insight on what may happen in the $100,000 Hopeful to be run August 31, will be given tomorrow when ten of turfdom's ranking juveniles match strides in the $10,000 Grand Union Hotel Stakes at six furlongs.

Packing the top weight of 127 pounds will be W. R. Coe's great 2-year-old Caruso, and the inconsistent but flashy Sarazen II, from the Fair Stable of Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt.

Carrying only two pounds less, and the favorite, will be Harry Payne Whitney's Whichone, hailed by many as the champion 2-year-old of the year.

Hi-Jack, the speedy son of John P. Grier from the George D. Widener Stable, is in with 122 pounds, four pounds more than Polygamous, Raccoon and Prometheus. Broadway Limited, the $65,000 son of Man o'War, makes a bid to graduate from the ranks of a maiden with 114 pounds in the saddle.

PRESIDENT'S CUP SWIM ON POTOMAC RIVER TODAY

Third Victory Sought by Ruddy

Buscher, 16-Year-Old D. C. Star, May Upset Dope.

By RICHARD S. TENNYSON.

ACCORDING to officials of the Washington Canoe Club yesterday's shower did not materially affect water conditions and barring the unforseen the temperature and flow should be ideal for the annual President's Cup three-mile swim which will take place this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

The starting time was moved up one-half an hour at the request of the Baltimore Central Y. M. C. A., which has entered a large squad in the race, but will be unable to arrive in Washington in time to start before 3:30. Aside from this change arrangements will be as previously announced.

Two additional swimmers have entered the event bringing the total number that have signified intentions of attempting to carry off the coveted President's Cup to 41. Otis Turner will swim under the colors of the Host Club and Whiteside Miller has entered unattached.

Ruddy, 2-Time Winner, to Compete This Afternoon.

Raymond Ruddy, the sensational young New York A. C. natator, who has won the race for two years, will again be a contestant, but never before has he entered with so many swimmers of known ability. Undoubtedly the New York youngster has improved in the last year, but in order to make it three straight victories it is expected that he will have more of a struggle than in previous years.

Lawrence Buscher, the 16-year-old hope of the Washington Canoe Club, has snapped out of the lethargy that alarmed his coach, Carl Ahlenfeld, for several weeks and promises to give his best. For a while it appeared that Buscher had lost some of his snap and desire to win, but Ahlenfeld decided he was a little stale and rested his protege a few days to find that this was just the thing the gian-sized youngster needed.

Other Prizes Offered in Addition To President's Cup.

In addition to the President's Cup for the winner there will be medals for each finisher and trophies for the first local swimmer to finish and the leading team. Marvin Markel is slated to start the swimmers at Chain Bridge.

Minute arrangements have been made for patrolling the waters and caring for all emergencies. Each contestant will be assigned a numbered canoe to follow him and the officials will keep in sight of the pack from motor boats.

The event will practically close the competitive sport program for the summer at the local canoe club, although Commodore Earl Weeks stated last night that crews would be entered in out of town regattas Labor Day. The complete entry list for the three-mile swim follows:

WASHINGTON CANOE CLUB—Jerome S. Shear, Carl Ahlenfeld, Lawrence Buscher and Otis Turner.

NEW YORK A. C.—Raymond Rudy, Edward Lee, August Harmes, Leo Siebel, George Pissler and Joseph Farley.

PALOOKA SWIMMING CLUB—E. B. Hooper, P. H. Ashworth, H. Mayers and R. L. Massingill.

COAST ARTILLERY CORPS—Robert R. Manuel, J. W. Dawson, M. G. Owens, F. H. Maness, Harold A. Sabelhagen and C. A. Beck.

BALTIMORE CENTRAL Y. M. C. A.—George Dreyer, Hugh Parker, Cyril Caulk, Roland Bieren, James E. O'Neill, Norris Vandenberg, Fred Muhlenfeld, William Reid, Kenneth Speddin and Paul S. Harrington.

CLIFTON PARK P. A. L.—Harry Burkheimer and Joseph Mei.

UNATTACHED—John C. Redmond, Edward C. Sullivan, George Balhke, Henry L. A. Brinke and Whiteside Miller.

El Dorado Is Upheld By League Directors

Vicksburg, Miss., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—The protest of the Alexandria Club against the alleged use by the El Dorado (Ark.) Team of four classmen, was disallowed by Cotton States League directors here this afternoon. There is doubt about a possible appeal to the national board of baseball arbitration.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Aug. 23.—Harvey Lunsford's Columbia Firemen will entertain the Ku Klux Klan Baseball Team tomorrow afternoon at Haydon Field, the game beginning at 4 o'clock. Joe Padgett, veteran moundsman, will do the hurling for the Firefighters. The Klansmen have a strong team and should put up a good argument.

Sunday afternoon the Firemen will clash with the Virginia Athletic Club in the first game of the city championship series. This game will be played on Haydon Field, the second on the Virginias' Field, and the third, if one is needed to reach a decision, will be decided by the toss of a coin.

The Colonials and Joe Hamilton's Collegiates will play this afternoon at Baggett's Stadium. The line-up of the Colonials will include Hudson or Posner, 1b.; L. Schreiner, 2b.; Billy Lynch, ss.; Bobby Lynch or C. Briel, 3b.; W. Schreiner, lf.; A. Schreiner, cf.; L. Devers or C. Dolph, rf.; W. Dolph, p., and C. Turner, c.

Sunday afternoon the Colonials will play Roy Butler's Fredericksburg Braves at Guckert's Field.

Jeff Williams' Del Ray A. C. will play the Washington Red Sox Baseball Team Sunday afternoon on Edward Duncan Field, the game starting at 3 o'clock. The Del Rayans will be without the services of McCullough, their star outfielder, who is out of the city on his vacation. Gus Kramer is playing a star game at first base, this being his first season with an unlimited team. Dick Perry, third baseman, is also in his first season, and is showing up well in both hitting and fielding.

Plans for the 1929 football campaign are being mapped out by the Del Rayans. Guy Camden and Bill Wilson have been appointed coaches, Wilson being a former Lehigh and Catholic University player. He will have charge of the line, while Camden, who aided in coaching the George Mason High School last year, will be the back field coach. Camden will also play with the team. Claude Nixon and Ray Clarke, two of George Mason's last year's stars, will also be seen with the team. The first gridiron drill will be held the first Sunday in September.

Chester River Golfers Play Rehoboth Today

Special to The Washington Post.

Chestertown, Md., Aug. 23.—The final match of the season in the Delmarva Golf League will be staged at Rehoboth Beach tomorrow when divot lifters of the Chester River Country Club will match skill against club swingers of the Rehoboth Country Club. The local team may swing into action minus several star performers though a gallery composed of local men and women enthusiasts will follow the team into Delaware.

Meanwhile matches in the club golf championship entered the final rounds this week. Winners of matches between W. J. Stanger and Claude Truslow and E. H. Strong and H. S. Russell will meet in the finals within a few days. These four reached the semifinals by virtue of wins over their second round opponents. Stenger defeated Horace Beck, 3 up and 2 to play, while Truslow won from Metcalfe, 5 up and 4 to play. Strong defeated R. H. Collins, the medalist, in a match that went 21 holes. Russell won from Corey in a match that was decided at the nineteenth hole.

Feminine golfers are preparing for team matches scheduled on the local course with women's teams from other clubs in the league. Mrs. Donald Stam is captain of the local outfit and other players are Mrs. George Maurice Morris, Mrs. Howard Strong and Misses Elizabeth Brown and Virginia Jones.

Baird and Duckwall In Asheville Final

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Wilburn Baird, of Asheville, and Bill Duckwall, of Bradenton, Fla., today won the right to play in the finals of the annual men's invitation golf tournament at the Asheville Country Club, Baird defeating Clyde Perry 2 up and Duckwall beating Alan Smith, defending champion, 5 and 4.

Baird and Duckwall will play 36 holes tomorrow, eighteen in the morning and a like number in the afternoon.

Duckwall's victory over Smith today eliminated the medalist from the tournament, the Asheville boy having beaten Dean Smith, of Savannah, Ga., in a playoff, after they had tied in the 36-hole qualifying round.

Baird's victory over Perry also was something of a surprise, as Perry entered the match a favorite.

Monroe Leads District Marksmen at Dayton

Special to The Washington Post.

Vandalia Field, Dayton, Ohio, Aug. 23.—W. D. Monroe, with 94 shattered targets, led the Washington trap shooters here today in the grand American handicap. R. D. Morgan was but one target behind Monroe with a 93, while A. V. Parsons, of Takoma Park, Md., scored 90.

The event was won by Mose Newman, Sweetwater, Tex., who broke 25 straight pigeons in a sensational six-way shoot-off of a tie of 98. Earl Boozer, 17-year-old local lad, captured second honors when he shot perfect after losing his first target.

The women's trophy was won by Mrs. N. V. Pillot, Houston, Tex., 22 to 20, in shoot-off of a tie of 92.

The record of 932 contestants established in 1926 was shattered today when 1,113 trapshooters participated in the classic.

OLYMPIC ACE IN $15,000 VICTORY

Martha Norelius Wins Wrigley Swim by 300 Yards.

she had a lead of five yards, with Miss Tower second and Miss Hertle third. At the 2 miles Miss Norelius was leading the Denver girl by 50 yards, with Mrs. Armstrong in third place, Miss Riley in fourth and Miss Hertle in fifth. These positions were held throughout the entire distance.

From lap to lap Miss Norelius' margin varied from 65 yards to 200 until the last 2-mile stretch began. Then she increased the distance between herself and her nearest rival without much difficulty, even stopping frequently for a few seconds during the last mile.

Miss Welsh Battles Eel and Cramps and Quits.

Although the temperature of the water was 64 degrees, victims of cold and cramp were hauled from the water early in the race. Helen Maybelle Gwozdecki, of Tornoto, was the first to give up. After covering a mile and a half Vivian Lee Welsh, of Girard, Ohio, and Thelma Babbitt, of Brooklyn, N. Y., were forced to quit. Miss Welsh suffered an added horror when she encountered a lamprey eel. She freed herself from the eel after a frenzied battle, but was immediately seized with cramps and chills. On the verge of collapse she was hauled into her escorting boat.

Marathon Winner Afraid Of Water at Age of Five

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Martha Norelius, White Sulphur Springs girl who won the Wrigley swimming marathon today, learned to swim here at the age of 5, when she was extremely afraid of the water, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Norelius, said tonight.

Martha's parents were the proudest couple in the world tonight, they said. "We knew Martha could win if she was not affected by cramps," Norelius, instructor at the Greenbrier pool here, and former swimming champion of Sweden, said. He had coached his daughter here for the grind.

Mr. and Mrs. Norelius were kept in constant touch with the progress of the race through telegraphic communication with Canada. The first message was received at the end of the sixth mile, when Martha was leading and going strongly.

"I think she'll win," was Norelius' comment then.

JONES HURLS NATS TO 1-0 TRIUMPH

was no one on base either time. Johnson, in right, made two flashy hit-killing plays that probably would have gotten away from Fothergill, but even with the added ability, the Tigers were not good enough to beat Jones today.

Only once did he look worried and that was in the seventh, when he had Rice on second, two out and Hargrave up. He solved that situation perfectly.

Detroit had men on base in nearly every inning. Harry Rice and Hargrave both singled in the second, but there was one out when Rice singled and two were gone when Hargrave hit. Westling ended the inning with a weak pop fly to Hayes.

Three Fast Double Plays Throttle Tigers.

Whitehill, leading off in the third, walked, but Johnson rapped into a fast double play. Fothergill led off with a single in the fourth and Cronin again started a double play. Hargrave singled with one out in the fifth and another double play followed. Two were out in the sixth when Gehringer singled and stole second, but Cronin took care of Fothergill.

The Tigers made a strong bid in the seventh. Harry Rice singled with one out and advanced on McManus' grounder. Hargrave was purposely walked to bring up Westling, but Harris countered by sending Hellmann to bat for Westling. He flied to West and ended the inning.

A brilliant catch by West, who leaped high against the scoreboard in center field and hauled down Johnson's long smash, kept Detroit from getting a man on in the eighth. They did not come near to having one on in the ninth.

Considine Trails Jennings When Rain Halts Match

Special to The Washington Post.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 23.—George Jennings, of Chicago, national public parks champion, was leading Bob Considine, Washington ace, in their semifinal match, 6—6, 3—2, when a torrential downpour chased both players and the record gallery and ended the tennis play for the day.

Jennings met unexpected opposition from the start from Considine. Expecting a soft time of it, the brilliant Chicagoan amused the gallery by his antics and expressions while he piled up a lead of 5—3. Considine held his service at this point and brought an ovation from the gallery by crashing through Jennings' mighty delivery. The champion, thoroughly aroused, settled down to business and captured Considine's serve. Considine took the next game, making an electrifying pickup for the final point. Jennings was too good for the Washington man in the next two games.

Jennings had now discarded the audience from his mind and settled down to the serious business ahead. He won his service, but Considine held his own, and followed that by taking Jennings' delivery. Jennings, volleying cripply, romped through the next two. It was at this point that all matches were called off for the day.

In the only other match that got under way Gus Amsterdam and Milford Meyer, of Philadelphia, took the first set from Booth Norman and Hap Schader, of St. Louis, 6—3, when the rain started. Both matches will be continued from where they left off.

Annual Bicycle Meet For Century Road Club

The Century Road Club Association will hold its annual bicycle tournament tomorrow around the polo field in West Potomac Park, beginning at 9 a. m. There will be four events for seniors and four for juniors.

The senior race will be for the naming of a new senior champion to take the place of Robert Conner, District champion from 1928 to 1928, who won the national championship at Kenosha, Wis., last year. Conner has been forced to retire because of ill health.

The senior events will be the half-mile race, the 1-mile, the 5-mile and a 10-mile point race. The junior events will be the same with the exception of the 10-mile race. The winners in both the junior and senior events will represent the District in the national championships, to be held this year at Newark, N. J.

Edgar Bieber is the favorite to win the senior title, succeeding Robert Conner.

The Lionels will be awarded a forfeit over the Milans. The Eastern All-Star and Brookland Boys Club Nines will be idle.

PLAYGROUND ATHLETES IN TIE

Rose Park and Briggs Lead Colored Meet; Rain Interferes.

RAIN halted the interplayground field and track meet for colored athletes yesterday at the Cardoza Playground when Rose Park and Briggs were tied for first place with 19 points each. All events except the unlimited high jump and the relays had been completed before the downpour. The meet will be continued Monday starting at 10 o'clock.

Other point scorers stood as follows: Sixth and L, 10; Cook, 8; Logan, 8; Garnett-Patterson, 6; Bruce, 6; Howard, 6; Shaw, 5; Lovejoy, 4; Cardoza, 3; Crummell, 3; Willow Tree, 1; Barry Farms, 1.

The feature race of the abbreviated meet was in the 880-yard run which was won by Johnson, of Briggs, in 2 minutes 26 2-5 seconds. J. Smith, of Willow Tree, started with the starter's gun as though it was the start of a 50-yard dash and held the pace for the first 220 yards, but weakened noticeably in the final quarter and was passed by both Johnson, of Cook, and Miller, of Briggs.

Johnson and Miller Run Neck and Neck.

Pollard, of Rose Park, showed a clean pair of heels to the large field entered in the 100-pound class 80-yard dash. He won all of his heats and triumphed in the finals with comparative ease. Riley, of Sixth and L, showed a fine burst of speed to win the 50-yard dash from Oldham, of Howard, and Hall, of his own team.

MARY DELLA

A Serial Story

By JULIE ANNE MOORE.

SYNOPSIS.

Mary Della Chubb, 18, and everything you could want in one young woman, works in the clock shop and lives with her parents in a Bank street flat. Her best friend is Miriam Bobbin. Her "steady company" is Joe Speaks. One of her erstwhile eager flames is Timmy Fitzmoan.

Robert Henley Calkman 3d, Yale football star and senior, and one of the Calkmans of Detroit. He is engaged to Marjorie Marabee, who lives on Cracker Hill. His closest friend is George MacKay, also of Yale.

Mary Della goes to meet Joe Speaks in front of the postoffice. Joe fails to show up. She starts to cross the street and is all but run down by a long, yellow roadster driven by Robert Calkman, who tries to take her to St. Mary's Hospital. But Mary Della directs him past the hospital and out East Main street. They park in the piece of old highway about half way to Cheshire. Robert asks if he may kiss her, and impulsively Mary Della turns out the car lights and throws her arms about his neck.

A woman screams in the dark road ahead. Robert goes to investigate. Minutes later Mary Della turns on the lights and sees Dobert and a woman, apparently dead, lying in the road, and between them, standing, a man in a red mask. She hides in the woods until the Red Mask leaves, then goes to Robert, who is only stunned. The woman is dead—murdered. Robert does not tell Mary Della who he is, but tells her to call him Bob. The next night Mary Della goes to the dance at Hamilton Park, and meets Joe Speaks, who persuades her to forgive and forget. They go for a ride on the Cheshire road. Joe proposes, but Mary Della says she must have time to think it over. As they pass the piece of old highway where the woman was murdered the night before, Robert's car comes out of the road and moves off toward Waterbury.

Will Mary Della and Robert be involved in the murder?

CHAPTER IX.

Robert Henley Calkman, 3d, sat with some 50 other firsts, seconds and thirds of the country's first families and tried to partially justify the outrageous annual expenditure necessary to keep a Calkman in Yale. Specifically, he was struggling with one of those typically simple Yale examination questions that are plainly intended to humiliate the student and exalt the teacher.

It was the tenth and last question. Robert swore roundly under his breath and wished that it were the last question he'd ever see. He ran his fingers through his hair.

He glanced at George MacKray, but at that moment George wouldn't have inspired anything more profound than a suggestion that all colleges be abolished as impediments to progress.

But gaze upon this much advertised problem that is causing so much mental sweat in Lampson Hall:

"Question 10: Who was the founder of scientific socialism, of whom was he a disciple, give a sketch of his life, enumerate his theories, arguments, proofs and compare each of the last three named with those of Henry Thomas Buckle, Friedrick Ratzel and William Z. Ripley."

Nothing to it, as you see, and pie for any one of Dr. Donovan's bright high school boys; but it was a barrel of trouble for the Messrs. Calkman and MacKray. Robert was—but perhaps you would be more interested to know how the wheels operate in the head of a Yale senior who is sparring with the final question of the last mid-year examinations. Well, observe the relentlessly logical process of thought pursued by Robert Henley Calkman 3d, as he sits with elbow on the desk and chin on his fist:

"These proofs give me a pain in the pancreas. . .whom does he think I am, Einstein or Thomas Nixon Carver?. . .George doesn't look any too happy, but he never does when he's trying to use his head. . .Nor did I when I was using mine last night. . .Boy! That Red Mask slugger certainly did give me a crack. . . I'd go through it again, though, to be with that kid. . .Mary Della. . . Sweetest name I ever heard. . .What a knockout she is. . .Marjorie's sweet too. . .Marjorie's going to marry me . . .Have to forget about Mary Della . . .Have to forget about everyone right now and concentrate. . .Can't afford to flop this exam. . .Old gent's expecting high marks. . .Marks. . . Marks. . .Marks. . .Yowie!"

"Bob!"

It was George. He caught up and gave Robert a slap on the back.

"Wasn't that a crip? These examinations are really getting too simple, you know."

"Did you," Robert asked, "answer the last question?"

"Why not? A 10-year-old could have managed it. I was a little confused for a moment as to whether it was Lamarck or Lapough; and then I realized it couldn't have been any one but——"

"But Karl Marx?" Robert asked sweetly.

George simultaneously snapped his fingers and made a gesture with his arm to indicate his utter disgust with himself. "By heaven, you're right, Bob, and I said La Pouge. Can you imagine that?"

"Without the slightest strain," replied Robert. "Come on up, I want to buzz your ear."

They went up to Robert's room in Harkness Hall, carefully avoided all the chairs, and sat on the bed with their backs to the wall.

He told George of his visit to the Marabee home and the success of his mission there; of his dramatic introduction to Mary Della, their ride and the memorable hour that followed. He confined himself to bare facts and carefully omitted any reference to the charms of Mary Della.

"You damn fool," George exploded. "You let that girl take you in, and then to make things worse, you go plowing through the dark to mix in where you had no business."

"But I didn't know the woman was dead, George. She was in trouble and the only decent thing to do was go to her. But this fellow in the red mask met me on the way."

"Didn't you see him coming after you?"

"You've heard of it being so dark you couldn't see your hand held up before your face? It was like that, George. I saw a dark form just before he cracked me, and I knew it was a man, but I didn't have time to raise my arms."

"Just a minute, George. That's the second time you've alluded to Mary Della unpleasantly. I can't blame you, because I've told you nothing good about her. But let's get this straight: She's about the finest and most adorable little bit of loveliness who ever walked on two feet, and there aren't any questions."

"Well—I'll—be—damned." George slid from the bed and stood facing his friend. "Boy, you're getting entirely too involved to suit me. I can't follow. One minute you're chirping because Marjorie accepted you. The next you're spilling bubbles about a girl you tried to run over ten minutes after you left Marjorie's. What's wrong, son; are you going daffy?"

Robert coudn't resist a broad smile. It really was all mixed up, at that. But there was a distinction somewhere between Marjorie and Mary Della. If he could just decide what it was.

"I couldn't expect you to understand, George," he said a little vaguely, "but one doesn't necessarily look for beauty and personal charm in a woman one hopes to marry."

"Oh, doesn't one?" George exaggerated his genuine amazement at this new concept of the ideal wife. "I suppose I'm a good deal of a novice at these things, Bob, but somehow I'd always thought that one sought all the virtues in the woman one hoped to marry. It couldn't be now that you're trying to persuade yourself that black is white, coud it?"

"Have I said that Marjorie wasn't pretty or didn't have charm?" Robert demanded in dismay.

"Well, now that I think back," George agreed, "I don't believe you have—said it. But let's drop it. Are you likely to be pulled into this murder case?"

Robert considered. "I don't believe so, George. But you never know what these modern detectives will dig up. I've checked up on everything I had on my person and I don't find anything missing. But girls are more likely to leave a clew with all the junk they carry around in those bottomless carry-alls they call vanities. I didn't think to ask Mary Della to take inventory."

"And here's a strange thing, George," Robert continued. "Mary Della tells me that road is popular with parkers, and I was certain the body would be discovered before morning. But neither the morning nor afternoon paper has had a word about it, and my conscience is beginning to hurt."

"I'd think your head would be enough; why your conscience?"

"Good Lord, man, there's a responsibility there. I'm letting a bloodthirsty criminal get away with one of the most cold-blooded murders I ever heard of. And just to save my face. Mary Della recognized his red mask; what wouldn't the police give to know that, when they get on the case? Every minute that that woman lies there is giving the criminal a better opportunity to cover up his tracks. Don't you see?"

"Afraid I don't, old man," George admitted; "but it isn't necessary. The burning question of the moment is, What are you going to do about it?"

"That's what I wanted to talk to you about," Robert informed him.

"Which means," said George, "that innocent little George MacKray is about to be drawn into the mystery. Go ahead, break my heart."

Robert lit a cigarette and contemplated an etching on the opposite wall.

"I've got a lot of nerve to ask you to do this, George," he said after a time; "but you're the only person I can depend on. It involves some risk and more courage. . . . By the way, where were you between 7:30 and 10 o'clock last night?"

"Sounds like a cross-examination," George laughed. "Well, your honor, I was in the frat house with about fifteen of my indolent companions studying for that nasty exam we just flunked."

"You see," Robert explained, "you've got an alibi, I haven't. If they catch me on that road again, they'll probably hang me on circumstantial evidence."

"So I'm to go back in your place and discover the body, is that it? Just a casual little favor you are asking, seems to me."

"Oh, I know, George. It's putting a pretty heavy strain on friendship but I've got to get that woman off my mind, and I can't until the police get busy. They may have found the corpse by now, you know, in which case all you'd have to do would be to ride on in to Waterbury and get a paper so I can learn how much they know."

"And if they haven't found it?"

"You could say you got off the road, George, and almost ran over it. It wouldn't be hard to make a mistake there; it's a piece of the old highway and in pretty decent shape. Besides, they couldn't very well suspect you. Any doctor could determine that the woman had been dead for 24 hours, and you've got alibis for every one of the 24."

"And what would I be going to Waterbury for, pray?"

Robert smiled. "I've provided for all those little details, George. You and I are going out and purchase what is known as an engagement ring, and you're going to be commissioned to take my car and deliver the said ring to Marjorie. See how simple it all is?"

"Oh, my, yes. Yes, yes, yes! And I start, I suppose, the minute we get the ring?"

"Why——" Robert hesitated. "No, I think not, George. The longer we wait the more chance there'll be that they've found the body. And the later it is, the less risk you take of being seen when you leave the main road. If they've discovered the corpse, you understand, it's just as well that my car isn't recognized around there. You see, I'm trying to make it as easy as I can for you."

"Aren't you, though? And so I leave her at——"

"Oh, I should say about 10 o'clock. Is it a go, George?"

George grew serious. "Of course it is, Bob. I may be yellow and all that, but I'll be no piker in your eyes. Come on, let's go get that what-you-may-call-it for Marjorie before the stores close."

"Wait a minute, I want you to leave a note at another address in Waterbury while you're there."

So . . . ? Well, that explains that. But did George find the body? Tomorrow, Mary Della spills the beans!

ROCKINGHAM G. O. P. TO DECIDE COURSE

INTEREST IS LAGGING

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 23.—Rockingham County Republicans meet here tomorrow to choose two nominees for the House of Delegates—and incidentally to reveal just how far the rank and file of the party membership is going in the support of the fusion ticket with the anti-Smith Democrats, which is headed by Dr. William Moseley Brown, for governor, in the November election.

There are rumors of a coalition ticket for the house, with one Republican and one anti-Smith Democrat being nominated for the race. Whether the convention follows the lead of the one or two leaders who alone are in favor of the State coalition ticket remains to be seen. Others see the possibility of a county coalition ticket the result of many outstanding Republicans considered for the nomination refusing to make the race.

Preconvention Choices.

Preconvention choices for the house are reported to be Dr. J. M. Henry, instructor at Bridgewater College, and a former president of Blue Ridge College, at New Windsor, Md., who has been in the county only the past two years, and A. M. Turner, veteran Brocks Gap lumberman, who has been an unsuccessful candidate before. From the coalition faction of the party comes the name of L. H. Bruce, former mayor of Elkton and now an anti-Smith Democrat.

Congressman Jacob A. Garber, of the Seventh District, and Charles A. Hammer appear to be the only Republican leaders in favor of the coalition race this fall and these two are the only party stalwarts who so far are making a fight for Dr. Brown. The other county leaders have definitely expressed themselves as opposed to the union with the anti-Smiths and say they will make no concerted effort on behalf of the ticket. The convention tomorrow then probably will determine the policy of the Rockingham Republicans in the November election campaign.

When Dr. Brown addressed a court day crowd here last Monday to open his Shenandoah Valley campaign, Representative Garber and Hammer were the only Republicans conspicuous in the meeting. The leadership seemed to have fallen upon the Anti-Smith Democrats and E. C. Wine, county chairman of the Anti-Smiths, presided at the meeting and introduced Dr. Brown. Very few of the Republican leaders were present at the rally.

Democrats Meet August 31.

Rockingham Democrats meet Saturday a week, on August 31, to select their legislative ticket. Delegate Ralph Bader is a candidate for renomination and friends of former Delegate J. R. Brenneman, of Fulks Run, are urging that he make the race. Brenneman, after serving one term in the House of Delegates, was not a candidate for reelection two years ago.

If Brenneman is nominated, he will aspire for the house seat occupied for a number of years by the veteran George B. Keezell, who retired from the house ranks some months ago to accept appointment as Rockingham County treasurer.

Leaky Boat Saved From Loss in Bay

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—The schooner Carrie, Capt. Harry Page, of Cambridge, Md., and his crew of two men, reached Annapolis late last night after a perilous experience in which the vessel nearly sank in mid-Chesapeake Bay.

With a large cargo of wood, the schooner was bound for Baltimore. Springing a leak, while several miles out from Annapolis, she began to fill rapidly. The skipper and his men worked constantly at the pumps, at the same time casting much of the cargo overboard. Even then the schooner's decks were entirely awash when she arrived at a local dock. A strong southeast wind was a big factor in the schooner reaching land.

Volunteer firemen went to the assistance of the vessel when she arrived here, using a pump engine to clear the water from the boat. The schooner was repaired today preparatory to resuming her trip.

RICHMOND'S AUTO DEATH RATIO LOW

5 PLACES ACHIEVE ZERO

Richmond, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Richmond's automobile fatality rate per 100,000 population was well below the average of 78 leading cities for the 52 weeks ended August 10, 1929, a Bureau of the Census report, released here today, shows.

For deaths due to accidents occurring within city limits, Richmond's rate was 17.3 per 100,000, comparing with the general average of 20.3. The Richmond rate this year was higher, however, than last year's, 14. Total deaths for automobile accidents here for the year ended August 10 were 49, 34 of which were caused by crashes occurring within city limits. Last year the total was 45, 27 of which were traceable to accidents in the city. Four deaths occurred here in the four weeks ended August 10, compared with three deaths for the four weeks ended August 11, 1928.

Deaths Mount Over Year Ago.

Six hundred and sixty deaths from auto accidents were reported by the 78 cities for the four weeks ended August 10. This compares with 585 deaths during the four weeks ending August 11, 1928. Most of these deaths during the four weeks ended which occurred within the corporate limits of cities, the Census Bureau report states.

"For comparison," the report continues, "the number of deaths due to automobile accidents within city limits is desirable. Such figures are available for the four-week period ended August 10, 1929, and for the corresponding four-week period of 1928 for all of the 78 cities, the four-week figure in 1929 being 532 as contrasted with 465 for the corresponding four weeks in 1928.

"For the 52-week periods ended August 10, 1929, and August 11, 1928, the totals for the 78 cities were, respectively, 7,986 and 7,252, which indicate a recent rate of 24.3 per 100,000 population, as against an earlier rate of 22.1, or an increase of 10 per cent in the rate in a single year.

Five Cities Report No Deaths.

"Five cities reported no deaths from automobile accidents for the last four weeks, while six cities reported no deaths from automobile accidents for the corresponding period of 1928." Cities reporting no deaths from auto accidents during the four-week period were El Paso, Tex.; Paterson, N. J.; Syracuse, N. Y.; Utica, N. Y., and Waterbury, Conn. El Paso had the same record for the corresponding four weeks in 1928 and other cities with zero records then were Canton, Ohio; Kansas City, Kans.; Knoxville, Tenn.; Nashville, Tenn., and Yonkers, N. Y.

There were 1,162 deaths from auto accidents in New York City in the 52 weeks ended August 10, 1929. Chicago was second in total number, Philadelphia third, Los Angeles fourth and Detroit fifth.

Farmer Is Bailed In Death of Wife

Appeal Gains Liberty for Man Jailed for Failure to Aid Suicide.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 23.—Edward Spitler, Shenandoah County farmer, was released from the Woodstock Jail under $500 bail yesterday, pending a grand jury investigation of the circumstances surrounding the death of his wife two months ago. Spitler was tried and given one year in jail and fined $100 for contributing to his wife's death, but Judge Philip Williams, of Shenandoah County Circuit Court, granted his motion for release from jail on the ground that the warrant under which he was tried did not contain a misdemeanor count. New warrants have been issued against Spitler, and the grand jury will investigate the case.

Evidence shows that Mrs. Spitler died from poisoning several hours after she and her husband had quarreled, and the officers contend that Spitler made no effort to relieve his wife's suffering. He is alleged to have told a neighbor a few minutes afterward that his wife was dead, but the officers say Spitler admitted he did not go into the sick room.

Fury of Heave to Count In Rolling Pin Contest

Winchester Fair to Stage Annual Classic With Added Trimmings Designed to Show if Wives Put Their Hearts Into This Domestic Duty.

Winchester, Va., Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Women contestants in the first annual rolling-pin throwing contest here must make accurate heaves to win, but furious, determined facial expressions, speed, perseverance and satisfaction derived from a bull's-eye will be consequential factors also.

Although certain professionals have been barred from the contest, any Virginia woman, despite long experience and constant practice in wielding the pin, may enter. An average husband, "Henry," will be the target of 20-foot throws with ordinary wooden rolling pins. Each contestant will get three chances.

According to officials of the Winchester Fair, of which the rolling-pin tossing tourney will be part next week, the competition will be judged on the following basis: Fury and determination as evidenced by facial expression, 5 points; speed with which rolling pin travels, 5 points; perseverance as denoted by desire to follow up inaccurate heaves, 5 points; satisfaction derived from results, 5 points; accuracy, ability to hit Henry, 80 points.

The rolling-pin throwing contest is expected to surpass in attraction the hog-calling contest, which will be a feature of the Winchester Fair again this year.

Two days after the pin-throwing meet, to be held Wednesday, August 28, farmers of Virginia will demonstrate ability to make swine break down barbed wire entaglements and jump stone hedges. As in former years, volume will count most. Other judging points will be charm or appeal to the hog, musical quality, variety, originality and facial expression.

In the announcement of the contest, the committee stated: "Volume is necessary to reach the ears of the hogs, especially if they are in the back eighty, and the wind is blowing from the wrong direction. It also enables the neighbors to know one is home and attending to his work.

"A variety appeal is always more effective than a monotonous, uninteresting call. Variety in calling might be correlated with a variety of feeling. The hog caller's voice must have the ring of sincerity and honesty. It must carry conviction to the porkers or the calling is not a success. Truth will out!

"Originality creates interest. The hog should be able to distinguish its master's call from those of the neighbors. Happiness aids digestion, and hogs enjoy music. A clear, musical call will bring them in happy and light-footed to eat with more enjoyment and more profit. Singing school lessons thus are not wasted. Facial expression and general appearance of caller are one of the surest ways of judging the extent of the effort."

JURY WILL INQUIRE INTO STABBING CASE

NEIGHBOR IS ARRESTED

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 23.—The September Greene County grand jury will investigate the killing of Houston Morris, 58, Blue Ridge Mountain resident, who was found stabbed to death and his throat slashed during an alleged drunken brawl near Fern Hill, on the Spottswood trail, 30 miles east of here, last Saturday night, according to Standardsville reports. Louis Roach, 45, Morris' friend and next-door neighbor, is being held in the Standardsville jail in connection with the killing, upon the recommendation of the county coroner. A blood-stained knife is said to have been found on Roach's person.

Roach denies any knowledge of the stabbing. He admits that he, Morris, Zach McDaniel, aged 80, and his son, John McDaniel, were drinking at the latter's mountain home last Saturday night, but maintains that he fell asleep and knew nothing of what happened. The same story was told to officers by the McDaniels. All three men were said to have been in a drunken stupor when officers reached the cabin.

Morris' body was found by Mrs. John McDaniel when she returned from milking. The body still was bleeding, but life was extinct. It was placed about 35 yards from the McDaniel house. Officers assert that the body was carried to the place where it was found, as the victim would not have had sufficient strength to stagger out of the house in view of his fatal wounds. Mrs. McDaniel found the three men still drinking when she returned to the house after stumbling upon Morris' body. The woman then gave the alarm and Sheriff Malone came from Standardsville, five miles away, to find the trio asleep.

The four men were drinking in a small room less than 12 feet square and which contained a stove, bed, table and several chairs. Blood stains indicated to officers that Morris was stabbed while in the room.

Infantile Paralysis Afflicts Boy of 15

Dr. Young stated this morning that there was "no cause for any excitement," as the cases do not necessarily indicate an approaching epidemic. The officer said that various isolated cases existed all over the State, but there was not much danger of widespread contagion.

CHANGE IN ROSSLYN POSTOFFICE LAUDED

MORE EFFICIENCY SEEN

ARLINGTON COUNTY, BUREAU OF THE POST,
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The danger to the business interests of the loss of the identity of the Rosslyn Postoffice was removed yesterday, according to a statement by P. P. Woodbridge, executive secretary of the Arlington county secretary of Commerce, following an interview with postoffice officials.

"The changes as proposed by the Postoffice Department mean a more efficient mail service for the county," declared Woodbridge.

"The plan is," he continued, "to make Clarendon the distribution point for carrier service for Rosslyn, Cherrydale, Clarendon, Ballston, Ashton Heights, Lyon Park, Lyon Village, Fort Myer Heights, and Aurora Heights. The increased service will include the rural service from the Rosslyn office in addition to about 775 more homes, carrying with it three additional carriers.

The objections raised by the business interests of Rosslyn were that they opposed the loss of the identity of the Rosslyn office and the danger of getting their mail late.

It is understood that the office at Rosslyn will remain as it now is with the exception that the rural delivery will be taken care of from the Clarendon office, and instead of one delivery a day there will be two.

As far as the lock boxes are concerned they will be continued and business men will be able to get their mail the same as they do now.

In conclusion, Woodbridge said, "It only means improved mail service for the residents of Arlington County. Instead of the sections affected being separate from the District of Columbia they will all come under the city postoffice service."

C. D. Duke, of Clarendon, was arrested yesterday by Officer James D. East on a charge of passing worthless checks.

Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth announced that another warrant is pending against Duke charging that he went to the home of Edward Travers in Arlington and agreed to do certain repair work on his home, taking a note for $750, which, it is alleged, he sold. It is claimed that Duke has failed to do any part of the work he agreed to do. He is being held on $5,000 bond, before Police Judge Harry R. Thomas. H is being held on $5,000 bond.

The annual meeting of the Epworth League Institute of the Washington District will be held at Arlington Hall, Arlington County, today, beginning at 10 a. m. and continuing throughout the day. The District Institute is being planned by Miss Anne G. Smith, district secretary, and the faculty will include conference officials and prominent Epworth League workers, among whom will be J. Nelson Anderson, Miss Rebbie de Butts, the Rev. A. H. Shumate, Miss Ruth Hall, the Rev. H. M. Wilson, Miss Maude I. O'Flatherty, the Rev. J. J. Reeves and Miss Ruth V. Anderson. Miss Mapha O'Flatherty will act as the registrar for the institute.

Among the leagues that will attend the institute are Branchville, Brentwood, Calvary, Cedar Grove, Emory, Epworth, Francis Asbury, Friendship, Hyattsville, Marvin, Mount Oak, Mount Rainier, Mount Vernon Seminor, Mount Vernon, Y. P., and St. Paul.

The goal of Washigton District for this year is, "Washington On Top in 1930," and the theme for the institute is, "Our Goal Through Cooperation and Efficiency."

A pennant is being offered the Epworth League Chapter having the highest percentage of membership and visitors present, roll call being at 8 p. m.

Sheriff Howard B. Fields, with officer John R. Burke, left last night for Ohio to return to Arlington County Joe Parker, colored, alias Ernest Green and Joe Brewer, who is wanted in connection with the holdup at the Washington Brick & Terra Cotta Co. of South Washington, August 3.

The man said to be Parker walked into the office of W. H. Hampton, superintendent and asked for a job. Told to return the following Monday, he was not satisfied and ordered Hampton to hold up his hand, showing a pistol. He left the office with more than $1,000, the weekly pay roll.

There will be a meeting of the Democratic women voters of Lyon Park precinct Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Thomas R. Mechem, 541 Marion avenue.
